FROWN ON NEW BILLS

Watson Would Cut Debate
to Muscle Shoals, Supply
Bills, Law Transfer

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — With the tariff bill out of the senate, the natural tendency would be to release a flood of controversial measures but Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican leader, is trying to confine the attention of the upper house to non-controversial subjects as well as appropriation bills.

"This is only another way of saying that there will be plenty of debate on appropriations and on Muscle Shoals which is up for consideration. The senate by passing on Wednesday the Elliot-Keyes bill increasing the funds for construction of government buildings by $230,000,000 has accelerated the Hoover program for business restoration. The house had already adopted the bill, so funds will be available quickly to construct postoffices and federal buildings in several states. Also additional funds for the federal government's aid to co-operative building of highways now have been made available by the action of the house. The annual appropriations henceforth for roads will be $425,000,000 instead of $75,000,000.

There is a recess in the senate today which will have a psychological effect on business and that congress will be impressed with the argument against introducing any more controversies than are already scheduled.

ANXIOUS ABOUT ELECTION

Inasmuch as this is a year of congressional election, most members are anxious to see an early adjournment in order to give them time for their primary and final campaign. This means that neither legislation with reference to railroad consolidation or a communications commission or the bill to regulate bus transportation are likely to be taken up at this session.

Certainly Senator Watson is opposed to anything more than Muscle Shoals and the supply bills and of course the bills with reference to the transfer of prohibition bureaus from the treasury to the department of justice.

There is a demand of course from many sides for legislation on favor of projects sponsored by individual members of the senate but so far as party regularity is concerned or party control it is not likely that Mr. Watson could be sure that the administration viewpoint on legislation would be accepted even if he kept congress in session.

DISPUTE ON LABOR

Senator Wagner of New York is likely to press for action on legislation to study the unemployment question but here again unless all sides can agree on a measure so that there is an assurance of immediate passage the proposal would have to go over to another session. It is quite likely however that an agreement can be reached on the Wagner bill because the Republican administration is inclined to favor something of that kind in order that a statistical survey of unemployment may be made. Also there has been some discussion of a survey of what is known as "technological" unemployment which is said to result from introduction of labor saving devices in the manufacturing world.

There are many bills which probably will not be acted upon by the senate. The house will have its troubles soon, however, when the question comes up as to how the conference committee shall handle the tariff bill and whether members of the house will have an opportunity to vote separately on different schedules.

Leaders Of Labor And Women Urge Support Of City Manager Plan

Labor leaders in all parts of the country have gone on record as favoring the city manager form of government, and especially in cities where they have had the opportunity to compare the manager form with the aldermanic system. They find it saves them money by reducing taxes and they get much quicker action in their requests to the city.

These men, reporting from their actual observation of the manager plan, are not influenced by the blanket condemnation that has been made by some labor organizations. These condemnations were made for political reasons and not because labor has not benefited from the manager plan. But laborers living in cities operating under the manager plan known from their own experiences what it has done to them and they are for it without reservations.

Gust Utterberg, president of the Janesville Central labor union, which corresponds to Trades and Labor Council of Appleton in this city.

"The city manager plan is working out to our satisfaction, resulting in lower taxes and a better coordination in the different branches of the city's business," he said. "I am well pleased with its operation in our city."

"The city manager system is an improvement over the aldermanic system and it is generally satisfactory in our city," writes L. A. Banner, secretary of the Kern county, California, Trades Council, about the city manager system in Bakersfield Calif. Mr. Banner said the people of his city are so well satisfied with city manager government that no one even thinks of abandoning it.

In Dayton, Ohio, where labor has had fifteen years to watch the city manager work, it is more enthusiastic than ever about the system. C. L. Templeton, president of the Trades and Labor Council of Dayton says: "We have a very efficient police and fire department and the purchasing department is conducted on business principles. We are satisfied with what manager government has done for us."

Labor was responsible for adoption of the city manager plan in Dubuque, Iowa, and they have been consistent defenders of it against the old line politicians who still are trying to get back to the public through from which they were thrown by the city manager. Labor takes a leading part in selecting candidates for the council and keeps a careful watch over the government. John F. Quinn, business manager for the Carpenters union declares "that the plan has worked out well here. Union labor and business men work together. The only opposition we have is from 'old line' politicians."

From Watertown, N. Y. comes the assuring information from George W. Gibbs, a harbor, secretary of the Watertown Central Trades and Labor assembly, that the plan is working out very satisfactory here and there is no dissatisfaction or opposition among the laboring men.

Then from the south H. D. Apple, Sr. reports that in Greensboro, N. C. the vast majority of laboring people are for the city manager plan "and find it very satisfactory."

These extracts from letters received from all parts of the country prove that labor is satisfied with the city manager plan in cities where it has had an opportunity to watch city manager government operate. These letters all are from leaders of labor who are in a position to know and express the sentiments of the men in their city.

It is interesting to note that women are just as much for the city manager plan as are the laboring men and for about the same reasons. They are pleased with it because it has reduced their tax bills and left more money for other household uses. They like managerial government because invariably it means more attention to health and sanitation and recreation, all essential to the well-being of families entrusted to the care of women.

From Dubuque, Iowa, the city in which the managerial plan was sponsored by laboring men, Mrs. Eugene Adams, president of the Iowa Women's club writes that "she hopes city manager form of government always will remain in force in her city" and she said she and the other women of Dubuque are highly pleased with the way the plan operates.

Kenosha women are just as eager for city manager government as the women of Dubuque, according to Mrs. Eugene Smith, 6021 Eighteenth-ave, Kenosha. "I think the thinking people of Kenosha are pleased with city manager government and can see good results from it," she said.

And then from Stevens Point comes the word of Mrs. B. D. Carlton that city manager government in two years "has resulted in a much more businesslike way of handling municipal affairs with decidedly noticeable improvements, such as more efficient policemen, better cleaned streets, systematic street improvement and rapid extension of underground work with no increase in taxes or increase in assessment."

Letters from women in all parts of the country breathe the same kind of sentiment, that they are happy to have their cities under the managerial form of government. They see in it many advantages for themselves and their communities that were denied under the aldermanic form and they have no desire ever to return to that system.

Says He Lost $100,000 In Gem Holdup

Chicago—(AP)—Harry Peck, Baltimore diamond salesman, reported to police today that he was robbed of gems valued at $100,000 by three men who held him up in a downtown building. He said the robbers presented him with a .38 Smith & Wesson revolver and snatched two wallets containing the diamonds.

Peck was waiting for an elevator in a Wabash-ave building when the three robbers stepped up to him, threatened him and frisked his pockets for the wallets. Detectives hurried to the scene but could find no witnesses to the robbery and Peck went to the central police station to make his report.

Peck is an employee of the S. Kaplan company, New York.

Police expressed doubt of Peck's story when he said an elevator operator was within six feet of him when he was held up. The operators denied having observed any commotion or holdup. Peck also said he did not know the names of jewelry buyers at department stores with whom he professed to have conferred during the morning.

ECKENER OUTLINES HIS PROGRAM FOR ZEPPELIN

Washington—(AP)—Opening his first day in Washington with official calls, on President Hoover, Postmaster General Brown, Secretary of War Hurley, and acting Secretary of the Navy, Dr. Hugo Eckener, skipper of the Graf Zeppelin, today outlined a program for the dirigible's next flight to America and the proposed establishment of a transatlantic aircraft line.

The flight of the Graf, he said, will probably start May 10, with a stop at Seville, Spain, for refueling, mail and passengers. South America will be the destination, followed by a flight to Lakehurst ending May 20.

A conference with department heads at the navy will be held tomorrow to settle details of turning over the government's dirigible facilities to Dr. Eckener for the Graf's brief stay in the United States. The navy has already agreed to loan the Lakehurst airport for the venture.

HEIR TO ITALY'S CROWN IN BED WITH MEASLES

Turin, Italy—(AP)—Crown Prince Humbert, who recently took Princess Marie Jose of Belgium as his bride, was in bed today with measles. Physicians said that the disease, usually associated with children, was running its course and that there had been a noticeable abatement of fever. He is residing at the palace which was refitted at the time he brought Princess Marie Jose here.

DOHENY HIDES FROM CHICAGO REPORTERS

Chicago—(AP)—Edward L. Doheny, enroute to his Los Angeles home after his acquittal at Washington of a charge of bribing Albert B. Fall in the Elk Hills oil leases, eluded newspapermen during a brief stop-over at Chicago today. He departed on the Santa Fe Chief at 11:15 a. m., closeting himself in his drawing room with locked doors and drawn curtains.

Still Seek Word About Missionaries In China

Exact Whereabouts of Catholic Group Remains Unknown to Authorities

Canton—(AP)—The exact whereabouts of 16 American Catholic missionaries, besieged for three weeks at Kanchow, Kiangsi province, by bandits and communists, was uncertain today.

Belief was expressed they had evacuated Kanchow fearing the city would fall before the bandits who have been raiding, killing and looting throughout the southern part of the province for months.

The belief was based upon a telegram sent by the Rev. Father Young, missionary stationed at Kanchow, saying that the communists and bandits had entered Manafu, about 50 miles away.

Contrary to this, however, was an unofficial Chinese dispatch which stated the communists had been dispersed near Kanchow, thus relieving the situation. Meanwhile communication with Kanchow continued by telegraph and telephone, and the actual condition of the missionaries, ten men and six women, was not learned.

The lawless forces, which have looted Kiangsi province for months were reported to have attacked and captured the towns of Sinfeng and Taiyi in southern Kiangsi. Nanyang in northern Kwangtung province also was reported to have fallen into their hands. Whether missionaries were safe at the Sinfeng and Nanyang stations was not known but the Chinese populace was reported to have fled in panic.

DOUBT REPORTS

Shanghai—(AP)—Persons familiar with the Communist situation in Kiangsi province today expressed grave doubts as to the accuracy of reports from Rome and Canton saying the red siege at Kanchow had been lifted and the missionaries there released.

Reports from Nanchang, capital of Kiangsi, said the local Chinese press had published a dispatch stating that Kanchow had fallen into the hands of the reds.

Missionaries here, including former residents of Kiangsi, expressed doubts, however, that the communists had captured the city. They believe Kanchow still is besieged and that the conflicting reports indicate efforts have been made to hide the truth of the situation.

2 STUDENTS FOUND DEAD IN PARKED AUTOMOBILE

Jonesville, Mich.—(AP)—Jesse Durfee and Cecile Nye, 17-year-old Jonesville high school students who had been missing since Monday night were found dead this morning in Durfee's sedan, parked in a cemetery near here.

The two students had left the Jonesville high school Monday night following a football banquet. Durfee said he was going to drive Miss Nye home. No indications as to what caused their deaths was found.

The bodies were discovered by Emory Nye, the girl's father. There were no marks of violence. Officers said their deaths probably were caused by carbon monoxide poisoning. The ignition switch was on but the motor had stopped.

SMOOT TO BROADCAST HIS VIEWS ON TARIFF

Washington—(AP)—Reed Smoot, Republican senator from Utah, who helped shape the tariff bill, will talk about the much discussed measure tonight over the Columbia broadcasting system, beginning his address at 10:30 p. m., eastern standard time (9:30 Appleton time).

TREATY ISSUE COMES UP AT PLENARY MEET

British Busy Trying to Settle Problems With French and Italians

London—(AP)—The chief delegates to the naval conference meeting at St. James' palace this afternoon decided to hold a plenary session a week from tomorrow.

It was expected that the question of some sort of security pact for the benefit of the French would come up at that time.

In the meantime important negotiations are understood to be proceeding among the British and French and Italians regarding a security pact.

The plenary session will be to discuss the progress made thus far in the conference, the idea being that all angles to the situation should be brought out into the open. As one authoritative conference source put it, "somebody will have to do some talking."

Setting of the date for the long-awaited plenary session was the only decision reported from today's meeting.

The Americans indicated at headquarters that they felt more optimistic today over conference prospects than for some time.

FRENCH HOPEFUL

Paris—(AP)—The French government is waiting to see what sort of a pact the naval conference will offer with the hope expressed in official quarters that it would be an adequate inducement to reduce her tonnage.

The determination, however, was expressed in French official circles that only something worth while in French opinion would be accepted.

These circles frankly say they want "acts not words" meaning that the proposed pact must be something more than a polite agreement to meet and talk things over if war danger appears.

"Whether there is a pact or not," said one political authority, "there are always such conferences and what we must have is the assurance that the parties to the pact will do something."

France can conceive several forms of aid and other than military, but of sufficient weight in case of a threat of war to have tremendous effect, such as economic measures and public denunciation of aggression.

Whether the United States would participate even in "a consultative" capacity appears to be considered doubtful in semi-official circles, but American adherence, however neutral, would be highly valued.

The other negotiators to any pact, it was indicated, would have to produce something decidedly more tangible than words to convince France she must lower her naval figures below the 721,000 tons which she thinks her defense requires.

Washington—(AP)—Senator George of Georgia, a Democratic member of the senate foreign relations committee, expressed the opinion today that a consultative pact, now mentioned in connection with the London naval conference, would meet with stubborn opposition in the senate.

Such a pact, the senator said, would not be well received by either Republicans or Democrats in the senate. Also, he added, he thought there was a definite feeling in the senate at this time that a consultative pact might be construed as involving military intervention and that it might be misinterpreted.

BANK TO APPEAL ORDER TO PAY FOR BAD CHECKS

Milwaukee—(AP)—The Badger State bank of Milwaukee today prepared to appeal a decision made by Judge August Egan that it was liable for $17,000 in forged checks against the account of Charles F. Wynn, contractor. The contractor's signature, he testified, had been forged 252 times in five years. The court ruled the bank negligent in cashing the forged checks.

HUCKINS ARRAIGNMENT POSTPONED BY JUDGE

Cedar Rapids, Iowa—(AP)—Arraignment of Elmer S. Huckins on three charges of obtaining money under false pretenses was postponed today by District Judge F. O. Ellison. If jury trials are concluded tomorrow, arraignment will take place then, Judge Ellison said. Otherwise the hearing will be set for Monday.

Mueller Cabinet Quits On German Insurance Issue

Berlin—(AP)—The Mueller cabinet resigned today. The resignation followed all-day discussions of party leaders which failed to result in an agreement on the question of unemployment insurance.

The ministry, which has been in office almost two years, has had difficult sailing of late, particularly with the financial program of Dr. Paul Mollathauer, minister of finance.

Chancellor Mueller was understood to have recommended to President von Hindenburg that Heinrich Brüning, a Centrist member of the Reichstag, be asked to form a new ministry.

CHILD BURNED TO DEATH WHEN FIRE DESTROYS HOUSE

Green Bay—(AP)—Flanked by the body of his pet dog, neighbors today found the body of 5-year-old Robert Verbunker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Verbunker, who lost his life when fire destroyed their farm home near here today. The fire broke out in the kitchen of the house this morning while the child's parents were in the barn. When they got to the building, it was a mass of fire. The mother attempted to run into the house after her child. Flames drove her back.

Convicts In Missouri On Food Strike

Jefferson City, Mo.—(AP)—Tear gas bombs and clubs were used to rout 750 convicts from the dining hall of the Missouri penitentiary this afternoon and quell a second riotous outbreak in as many days. About twenty prisoners were injured in the clash with prison guards and a company of Missouri National guardsmen.

Jefferson City, Mo.—(AP)—Approximately 500 convicts in five factories inside the Missouri penitentiary walls went on strike today, after 750 and continued yesterday against prison food. The new outbreak resulted in curtailment of operations in the plants and about 900 prisoners were sent back to their cells.

Shortly before 11 o'clock the first line of 400 convicts was started to the penitentiary dining hall where yesterday's demonstration occurred. They were orderly but the situation was tense. The convicts are fed in relays.

It was a plan to feed all prisoners working and not participating in the strike in the dining hall on customary schedule and to serve the others in their cells where they are to be kept until prison officials single out the ringleaders in the strike.

The instigators were being put in solitary confinement in a new cell building set apart for rebellious convicts, there to remain until the rebellion is quelled.

"We are still trying to deal with them as friends," Warden Rudolph said, "but we have quit arguing. We will use force if necessary to end this trouble."

The atmosphere became more tense when, shortly after noon, 750 convicts who had been taken into the dining hall for lunch refused to leave when the signal was given to file out. The prison land, which plays during the noon hour, kept up its tins.

Many of the convicts were the same as those who started the trouble yesterday with a rebellion against the class of food given them for their noon day meal.

Warden Rudolph, again summoned to the hall, declared that the strike had come to act and that if the prisoners did not leave he would call in the national guardsmen and force them out.

HARRY PRICE DIES AT FLORIDA RESORT

Kimberly-Clark Official Succumbs After Heart Attack

Harry Price, 579 E. Wisconsin-ave, Neenah, secretary and treasurer of Kimberly-Clark Corporation, Neenah, died Thursday morning in Orlando, Fla., according to word received here today. He succumbed after a heart attack.

Mr. Price also was president and treasurer of the Kimberly-Clark Co., Neenah, and was a prominent church man. He was senior warden and treasurer of St. Thomas Episcopal church and treasurer of the church extension department of the Fond du Lac diocese.

He was born Nov. 10, 1874, in Salem, Mass., and came to Neenah in 1909.

Besides the widow, he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. F. M. Gunn, Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Price had spent the last two months in Florida.

STOCK TRADING AT NEW HIGH LEVEL FOR YEAR

New York—(AP)—Violent backing and filling of price movements characterized trading on the New York Stock exchange today, as the volume of trading swelled to a new high level for 1930. The days turnover aggregated 5,200,000 shares, crossing the five million mark for the second successive day this year.

TWO LEADING FACTIONS TO BE SUMMONED

Anti-Saloon League and Association Against Prohibition Included

AWAIT SHOALS ACTION

Decision on Other Organizations Depends on Tinkham's Testimony

Washington—(AP)—An investigation of wet and dry organizations is planned by the senate lobby committee.

Chairman Caraway of the committee said today the inquiry probably would begin as soon as the investigation into persons and organizations interested in Muscle Shoals was completed.

The Muscle Shoals investigation is expected to be finished next Tuesday with testimony by W. B. Bell, president of the American Cyanamid company, which now has an offer pending in congress to lease the government power and nitrate plant.

Caraway said the first witness in the prohibition inquiry probably would be Representative Tinkham, Republican, Massachusetts, who has asked to be heard by the lobby committee.

After that, the chairman said, representatives of some wet and dry organizations probably would be heard.

Definite plans have not been completed, but Caraway said that in all probability would embrace the Anti-Saloon league and the Association against the Prohibition Amendment.

PUTS DRY UNDER FIRE

Tinkham, a wet, has urged the committee to inquire into the activities of the Federal Council of Churches and the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals. He asked that he be given an opportunity to appear before the committee to support his contention that the organization should be investigated.

A decision on whether the committee will investigate these organizations will be made after Tinkham has testified.

Meanwhile, a report on Muscle Shoals is being prepared by the committee during the senate recess and it is expected to be presented as soon as Bell completes his testimony.

Caraway said the report would "present the facts" in regard to the activities of Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican National committee and former president of the Tennessee River Improvement association which has advocated the Cyanamid company's proposal.

The lobby committee, he added, had no intention of introducing a resolution of censure for Huston's action in collecting money from the United Carbide company for the Tennessee association and depositing it with his personal broker in New York. It was testified before the committee that the funds were used as margin for the purchase of stock.

"All the committee will do," he said, "is to present the facts for the information of the senate."

Caraway reiterated the lobby committee did not propose to offer a resolution of censure. He said he had heard reports that some one might do this but the rumors were indefinite. He added such a resolution would have to come from some one other than a member of the lobby committee.

The chairman said he expected the prohibition inquiry to be brief and hoped that the committee would complete its work within two weeks after the senate recess ends April 1. The committee has been in session for more than five months.

Caraway also said the committee would not go into the merits of the prohibition law. He explained it would inquire only into the methods employed by the organizations in advocating their respective positions.

APPROVE DRY MEASURE

The first of the National Law Enforcement commission's recommendations to strengthen the prohibition laws was approved today by the house judiciary committee when it favorably reported the Christopherson bill to authorize service by publication of padlock injunctions on absentee owners of speakeasies and other nuisances.

The committee also considered the Stobbs bill to modify the Jones law to define minor offenses of the dry law and to fix the maximum penalty for them at six months and a fine of $500. The committee, however, adjourned until next Thursday without taking action. There are three other measures recommended by the Wickersham commission before the committee.

Chairman Graham announced that the group appeared "disposed to work with the administration and will do the best it can with the bills." He said he saw no reason why the measures could not be acted upon by congress at this session.

Chicago Digging Its Way Out Of Drifts Left By Storm

MANY STREETS STILL CLOSED IN CITY AREA

No Estimate Available of Total Cost Created by Worst Blizzard

Chicago—(AP)—The snow had ended today, but the slush and drifts lingered on.

The snow stopped last night as suddenly and as unexpectedly as it started Tuesday morning leaving Chicago and its suburbs shrouded in the heaviest continuous fall in the city's history—19.1 inches.

Although the city was no longer faced with the necessity of fighting more snow, it had by no means coped with what it already had. Traffic was still delayed and in some cases paralyzed, schools were still dismissed and streets and sidewalks clogged with snow.

Along the lakefront and in other places where the wind was given a chance at the snow, drifts were piled high and held hundreds of automobiles fast. In the more congested districts the snow had turned into a dark slush, ankle deep at most intersections.

Street car lines, hardest hit of the transportation systems, were able to serve customers on most of the main routes but were far from normal and were not even attempting to run on many of the branch lines. Twenty thousand men and 250 pieces of machinery worked all night attempting to clear the rails.

Fifteen hundred street cars were reported stalled, most of them still manned by their crews who have been forced to keep a continuous watch for two days in order to be able to move on in case the way is cleared. On some of the side streets the crews were replaced by watchmen.

OTHERS PUSHED THROUGH

Other transportation lines were more fortunate with the elevated and suburban railways not only maintaining their usual service but carrying the added burden of persons unable to get to work on street cars or by automobile. Busses, unable to travel on many streets since the storm started to pick up their customers again today.

Motor clubs reported that all highways leading to Chicago were blocked and inter-city bus services were suspended. The roads in southern Illinois and in parts of Indiana held hundreds of snowbound motorists.

Cessation of the storm ended fears for the city's milk supply which was partially cut off yesterday. Heads of the larger dairies promised full deliveries today although they said they might be late.

Six more deaths yesterday brought the number attributed to the storm to ten. The cost in dollars was not even estimated. Besides the thousands spent in clearing streets—$50,000 in the Loop alone—there was a large amount of damage. Undermining of parts of the lake shore drive by the waves, collapse of roofs over a half dozen buildings and hundreds of automobile accidents all were charged up to the elements.

CONTINUED COLD
Although the weather bureau promised "little if any snow" today, it held out small hope of a thaw to those who had drifts to clear away. The temperature was expected to be lower, at least below freezing.

Loop hotels were packed again last night with thousands of workers staying down town at the expense of their employers. The Illinois Bell Telephone company made reservations for 1,000 of its employees at one hotel. Another hotel converted private dining rooms and offices into bedrooms. Attorneys at one of the theatres stayed all night in their dressing rooms rather than attempt to reach their out-of-the-loop hotels. The schools were practically deserted yesterday and at noon H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the board of education, ordered all schools closed until further notice. Only two pupils reported at the Avonlon Park school yesterday morning. At many other schools what few pupils arrived went right back home because there were no teachers and in many cases no heat, the janitors having been unable to reach the building.

STORM BIG NEWS
The storm was practically the only topic of conversation for two days. It received first position in every newspaper and was the subject of many radio talks, among them an appeal to the school children to clean up the walks while they had nothing else to do. The information department at the weather bureau answered 2,000 telephone calls yesterday from persons who wanted to know "how much longer the storm will last."

The city's drinking water was so riled by the lake storm that accompanied the snow that it carried a very noticeable sediment of mud through the pipes. The health commission, in order to offset this, ordered the chlorination raised from three and a half to eight pounds to every million gallons of water.

The effect on crime was unusual. Not a single case was placed on the trial sheet in the morals court yesterday for the first time in a year. The court usually has 50 cases a day. Only six robberies were reported, but many jewelers kept their shops locked due to the immobility of the police.

WITNESS ABSENT
Five men arraigned in police court went free because the complaining witnesses were storm-bound. And two deputy sheriffs, taking prisoners from Peoria, Ill., to the state penal farm at Joliet, had to borrow railroad fare from one of their prisoners when the storm forced them to abandon their car. The prisoners had been sentenced for passing a bad check.

Industry in the Calumet steel mill district south of Chicago was practically abandoned as most of the em-

Lone Survivor Of Finance Group 90 Years Old Today

Brunswick, Ga. — (AP) — George Fisher Baker, the lone survivor of a powerful group of financiers who commanded money and industry at the beginning of the twentieth century, today observed his 90th birthday at the Jekyll island retreat where he once conferred with J. Pierpont Morgan, James J. Hill, Theodore N. Vail and James Stillman.

Still active in the conduct of a wide variety of enterprises, the taciturn New York banker, whose silence has become a legend, planned a quiet day marked only by a family dinner. His son, George F. Baker, Jr., his daughter, Mrs. S. St. John and her son, John St. John, all of New York, and E. E. Loomis, president of the Lehigh Valley railroad, were with him for the occasion.

Mr. Baker reads little now, but has much to read to him. He has abandoned golf, a recreation which he took up at 70. In its place he finds diversion in an automobile drive twice a day over the island, which is approximately eight miles long and two miles wide. He is a keen dog fancier.

Mr. Baker came south in January and is in excellent health. The island, eight miles from here, is owned by the Jekyll Island club, an exclusive organization of 100 millionaires. Rare game frequents the island and virgin forests offer a scene of unusual pictorial beauty.

Unlike that other celebrated American, John D. Rockefeller, Sr., who also has reached his 90th milestone, Mr. Baker as chairman of the board of the First National bank of New York City and a director in other large corporations still is in the harness of work — if not of daily stunts, yet of great responsibilities.

He attends regularly the board meetings of his bank and of other businesses in which he is interested. Within the last year he has been on inspection trips over two railroads. He generally is credited with owning 20,000 shares of stock in his bank, holdings which alone are valued at more than one hundred million dollars. He became president of the First National in 1874, rising from an obscure position in a small Albany, N. Y., bank. Commenting on his service as a director in the general corporations representative of business prosperity in this country, Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon once said Mr. Baker had built "a firm belief in character."

In recent years his benefactions to eastern colleges and hospitals have run into large sums, but they have been made quietly and without advance notice. In public life Mr. Baker is the best example of his own advice. He often has said: "Business men of America should reduce their talk at least two-thirds."

FATHER KILLS 2 DAUGHTERS ON IOWA FARM

County Authorities Trying to Establish Motive for Double Slaying

Newton, Iowa — (AP) — County officials today were seeking a motive that prompted George McKinney to beat his daughter, Artie Dora, 25, to death, and then shoot and kill his other daughter, Gladys, 12, on his farm three miles southeast of Mitchellville.

Puzzled over the motive for the slaying, officials turned to insanity as the most plausible. McKinney told Sheriff George C. Kelley that "something had been telling him the last two years to kill them."

After disposing of the girls, McKinney shot himself in the hand and went to Newton, where he gave himself up to the sheriff. After dinner yesterday, McKinney's wife and their son, Lloyd, 22, drove to shop. Loren, 23, another son, and Marshall, 32, the third son, were away from the farm, leaving McKinney and Artie Dora alone on the place.

McKinney's hazy description to the sheriff revealed that he beat the elder daughter about the head as she was doing the housework. He dragged her body upstairs to a bedroom, placed it on a bed, and locked the door. A trail of blood led to the bedroom door.

The farmer then went to the country school to get Gladys, he told the sheriff. They made the return trip in McKinney's automobile and drove immediately in the barn.

When Gladys got out of the machine, McKinney shot her twice in the head, the girl sinking to the

DISTRICT EMPLOYMENT REVEALS SMALL GAINS

Chicago—(AP)—Manufacturing employment in the Seventh Federal Reserve district has improved, the monthly business conditions report of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago to be issued March 31 will say. Slight gains in both the number employed and in payrolls were noted in 1,771 plants of the district. An upturn in the metal products group was affected largely through expansion of the steel industry, which has been operating at better than 90 per cent capacity.

Total non-manufacturing employment declines in all states of the district, with Wisconsin showing the largest loss. Building and construction work receded more than in the same periods of 1929 and 1928 but the decline was much less than in the preceding month. Wisconsin alone showed smaller payrolls while the portion of Illinois in the Seventh district and the three other states—Iowa, Indiana, and Michigan—had increased aggregate earnings.

Following the trail of blood upstairs, the mother and son found the locked bedroom door. Hurrying downstairs for an explanation, they discovered that McKinney had started his journey to Newton to tell of the crime.

Mrs. McKinney and son, with the help of neighbors who had been called, beat down the bedroom door and saw Artie Dora's body lying on the floor. Gladys' fate was not revealed until McKinney reached Newton, where he told the sheriff he had killed his two daughters. The official called the McKinney home for verification and Gladys' body was found in the barn. The mother, in a near state of collapse, later was taken to a neighbor's home.

McKinney accidentally shot his elder daughter in the leg while cleaning a gun nine years ago, necessitating amputation. The confessed killer was in the county jail today awaiting placement of charges expected some time today.

To the Citizens of Appleton:

It has been said that a former administration paid $100,000.00 out of the General Fund toward the building of the Junior High Schools.

Following is a statement taken from the Treasurer's books showing this cost:

COST OF JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

Orders paid 1923	$ 69,066.81
Orders paid 1924	424,201.49
Orders paid 1925	256,296.27
Total cost	$749,564.57

Bond issue	$675,000.00
City General Fund	*20,000.00
1923 Premium & Int. on bonds	25,055.32
1924 Premium & Int. on bonds	22,870.63
1925 Premium & Int. on bonds	3,331.25
Int. High School fund	1,021.31
Overdraft from Gen. fund	*2,286.08
Amount paid	$749,564.57

From this statement it can be seen that $22,286.08 is the amount paid out of the general fund for the Junior High Schools.

Just About Everyone Who Reads At All-Reads a Newspaper Every Day!

In Appleton and surrounding territory the Post-Crescent is admittedly predominant. Its ability to obtain results for an advertiser, has been proven time and again. There never has been a time when this medium could be used to better advantage.

OF LASTING BENEFIT

And the cumulative effect of persistent advertising messages, delivered in the midst of the other important news of the day, is lasting public good-will and understanding.

What an amazing eyeful of information that is when you get what it means. It means there is one kind of reading all the people have in common and that is newspaper reading.

A DAILY CONTACT

It means that whatever else they may do, the people as a whole are in daily contact with newspaper advertisers.

It means that wherever else you advertise, you are reaching people who have already read the newspapers today and will read them again tomorrow.

It means that the only daily reading done by millions of the people is confined to newspapers.

So, if everybody you want to reach with advertising—from congressmen to chorus girls, from preachers to proof readers, from plutocrats to pumpkin tamers — if all classes, kinds and conditions have the newspaper-reading habit, the newspaper must be a good advertising medium.

SPEED AND ACTION

Speed and action mark a newspaper's life and functions.

The news deals with instant matters—things that are happening today—things that are forecast for tomorrow. In every corner of the world, reporters are hot on the heels of events — typewriters whirl — wires sing with the news. Airplanes, trains, motor cars, ships, all forces of travel and communication bear the news to the great distribution points which are the newspaper offices.

WORTH

You can tell a good purchase from a bad one by asking, "What did it cost; what is it worth?"

When you say newspaper advertising costs less than any other kind you do not tell the whole story.

It is only when you consider, also, what you get for your money that the full value of newspaper space is demonstrated.

In Appleton and Vicinity the Post-Crescent presents an invaluable and essential medium to assure overwhelming coverage.

SECOND FLOOR — READY TO WEAR DEPARTMENT

Believe 550 Million Tax Goal Will Be Reached For Month

STOCK CRASH HIT LIMITED GROUP IN U.S.

Continued Reduction Depends on Appropriation for 1931 Fiscal Year

Washington—(AP)—Treasury officials said today that income tax receipts totaling $542,432,341 on March 25 indicated the month's total would amount to more than $550,000,000, fulfilling estimates made at the beginning of the fiscal year.

The figures were also cited as supporting the estimates made when the government decided the revenue for the 1930 fiscal year would justify a reduction on taxes on 1929 income without seriously interfering with federal activities.

Whether this reduction will be carried beyond one year depends chiefly upon expenditures authorized by congress for the 1931 fiscal year. If the expenditures are sufficiently under the indicated receipts it may be decided to continue the reduction.

In studying the income tax returns, experts found that while the stock market losses due to the collapse last fall were large, they affected only a limited number of persons, while on the other hand corporation returns indicated a prosperous year.

While the March income tax receipts have so far met the treasury estimate, no one would venture an opinion as to whether the government would finish the fiscal year with a surplus. This problem also depends largely upon expenditures which may be authorized by congress in the three remaining months.

HAD $225,000,000 SURPLUS
At the time the tax reduction was decided upon the treasury estimated that the surplus next June 30 would amount to $225,000,000. The decrease in taxes was estimated to have reduced this by approximately $80,000,000 and since then the federal farm board has been allotted an additional $100,000,000.

The federal building project authorized by congress this week is not expected to affect the surplus because the money authorized will come out of the treasury over a number of years.

It was the opinion of Secretary Mellon that the present time was most opportune and economical for the government to build.

Letting of contracts under the Keyes-Elliott bill probably will start some time in April and officials hope that the year's construction program will total $50,000,000 or more, made possible through the piling up of amounts allotted to former years.

MORE DELINQUENT TAXES REPORTED
County Has $116,238 on Books for 1929 as Against $103,382 in 1928

There is $13,000 more delinquent real estate taxes for 1929 in Outagamie county than for 1928, according to a report from Miss Marie Ziegenhagen, county treasurer. A total of $116,238 was returned delinquent for 1929 as compared with $103,382 for 1928, the treasurer's report shows.

The largest amount of delinquent taxes was returned by the city of Appleton, $45,741.63.

Since making up the list of delinquent taxes, Miss Ziegenhagen said many property owners have called at the courthouse to settle their taxes. They must pay a penalty of 2 percent and a tax of 1 percent per month since last January.

The delinquent list will be held by Miss Ziegenhagen until May when the property will be offered for sale. The sale will take place on June 10. If property owners pay their taxes before the sale, their property will be removed from the list which is to be offered for sale.

BALLARD WILL TALK TO PARENTS AND TEACHERS
C. B. Ballard, who is opposing August Laabs for reelection as supervisor from the town of Grand Chute, will talk at a meeting of the "Parent-Teachers' association at Twin Willow school Friday night. On Monday night he will talk at a mass meeting in the town hall.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
Notice is given to all persons, firms and corporations that the town board of the town of Freedom, Outagamie County, by resolution duly adopted at its meeting held on March 21, 1930, has suspended and prohibited the hauling of any load or loads over any and all highways in said town which are not a part of the state trunk highway system when the combined weight of the vehicle and the load shall exceed six thousand (6,000) pounds; and that such suspension shall remain in force during a period beginning with Feb. 24, 1930, and ending May 15, 1930. Any person, firm or corporation violating or failing to comply with this resolution shall be prosecuted under the provisions of subsection 10 of section 53.10 of the Wisconsin Statutes of 1927, and shall be held liable for all damages which any such highway may sustain as a result of said unlawful operation.

The Oldtimer Asks--

Do You Remember When—
There were certain clever, popular young folks that you and every one else who had never gone camping with them, felt sure were going to make a big bright mark in the world, who haven't and then there were others, that people today are proud to say "I knew them when—" who never then gave any conspicuous promise of the things they were later on to accomplish. And doesn't it make you think of the successful florist who gives special care to the most puny seedlings with the remark, "them's the ones that give me my best flowers," or of the off-utt-text for Baccalaureate sermons, "and the stone which the builders rejected has become the head of the corner?"

You used to ride a high wheel bicycle, the kind you had to be careful in adding over a slight obstruction that you didn't take a header, the kind you coasted down hill on with your knees over the handle bars?

Your mother was making doughnuts she would cook and give you some of the nuts or make some special twisted ones or sometimes cut out and make doughnut boys and girls?

Cinger bread or cookies or fruit cake or jelly roll or dried apple cake or sponge cake or frosting for cake were being made you would sit on a wide shelf in the pantry impatiently waiting your turn to "lick the dish" but secure in the knowledge that your mother would leave as much as was good for you?

PLOWS STRUGGLE TO WIDEN ROADS

Eight Trucks Still at Work Thursday Morning—All Highways Open

With eight snow plows and trucks still at work Thursday morning Outagamie-co roads were rapidly being cleared of the snow brought by the belated blizzard Tuesday night and Wednesday morning.

Frank Appleton, highway commissioner, said Tuesday that all roads were open to traffic although the going on some was rather rough. The plows still at work Thursday were widening these roads and putting them in better shape for travel.

Ten plows and trucks were at work until almost midnight Wednesday, when the winds finally died down and the drifting stopped. Green service between Appleton and Green Bay, Sheboygan, Manitowish and other nearby cities was resumed.

Reports from other sections of the state indicate that all main roads are open to traffic but that motorists probably will find some difficulty on side roads.

Some of the towns in the county employed trucks Wednesday and Thursday to open their town roads. One of the first to start opening its roads was the town of Grand Chute.

A. A. GRITZMACHER HEADS ELK LODGE

Alfred Bradford Leading Knight and Fred Heinritz Loyal Knight

A. A. Gritzmacher was named exalted ruler of the Elk club at the annual meeting of the lodge Wednesday evening. He succeeds W. C. Jacobson who has been exalted ruler of the club for several years.

Other officers elected Wednesday evening were: Alfred Bradford, exalted leading knight; Fred Heinritz, esteemed leading knight; Peter Traas, esteemed lecturing knight; S. S. Ballet, secretary; W. A. Straussberger, treasurer; James H. Ballist, trustee for three years; and George Hogreiver, treasurer.

The evening's program opened with a fish dinner at 7 o'clock and was followed by the election and installation of a class of candidates. The Elk band furnished music during the dinner and ceremonies.

LOCAL MEN TO ATTEND SPORTSMEN'S MEETING

Five or six Appleton sportsmen are planning to attend the meeting at Fond du Lac Thursday night at which Fox river valley sportsmen will discuss problems of interest to hunters and fishermen in this section of the state. Richard Sykes, a member of the local Isaac Walton league, was leading the arrangements to take the Appleton group to Fond du Lac. Sportsmen from Appleton, Neenah, Menasha, Oshkosh, Berlin, Sheboygan, Fond du Lac and other valley clubs are expected at the meeting. J. G. Kelleter, conservation director of Wisconsin, and William Mauthe, chairman of the conservation commission, are to be the speakers.

AUTO HITS FLAT CAR BUT DRIVER IS UNHURT

Edward Wettengel, 116 S. Pierce-ave, escaped injury about 7 o'clock Tuesday night when he was blinded by the blizzard and drove his small sedan into the side of a flat car at the DeForest crossing. Mr. Wettengel had stopped to wait for a freight train to pass. After he saw the last box car go by he thought the crossing was clear and started ahead without seeing the flat car directly behind the box car. The train was moving slowly and the radiator and bumper of the car were damaged.

PREPAREDNESS IS NECESSARY, GRAFF TELLS ROTARY CLUB

Legion Doesn't Believe in War, but It Recognizes Need of Defense

"The American Legion does not desire war; we have seen its naked horrors and know what it means. But we believe in proper preparedness for defense because we have seen what it means to send untrained and ill-equipped men into action."

With this statement Marshall C. Graff, state commander of the American Legion, urged the maintenance of a proper policy of defense, hand in hand with a foreign policy of fairness and honesty in the treatment of all nations, in an address before the Rotary club at Hotel Northern Tuesday night.

"The United States had adequate defense before the Civil War," he said, "because the warfare of the period was an adaptation of American Indian fighting methods with which our frontiersmen were familiar and because they were trained to shoot as part of their daily lives. After the Civil War we had adequate defense because we had a million veterans and the ablest and most experienced officers in the world. But by the time of the World war we had allowed our defense to fall behind, while war was becoming a business of machines and instruments. And our people were not trained to use the new weapons."

GREEN TROOPS KILLED

He declared that the expense involved in extemporizing the arms needed for the last war more than wiped out any saving that had been accomplished by neglecting defense preparations in all preceding American history, besides which, he said, the green troops that were sent into the war were unable to protect themselves. He told of an American sergeant in the St. Mihiel defense who found three men in his platoon who didn't know how to work the bolts of their rifles and said old soldiers had often commented to him that the bulk of casualties were among the new troops.

Mr. Graff said the American Legion was working to carry on the work of the Grand Army in patriotic instruction in the schools, which, he said, had been much neglected since all but the last remnants of the Civil War soldiers had vanished.

Although the American Legion does not believe in war, he continued, it does contend that preparedness for the wealthiest country in the world is sound business policy and that it is sheer criminality to send untrained men into modern warfare.

The state commander described what the American Legion is doing for its disabled and crippled comrades, those men for whom the war will never end; its program of child welfare, which grew out of the obligation felt for the families of veterans; the expansion of this program to include boys' work, scouting, junior baseball, safety, road signs, conservation, schools, playgrounds, etc.

OUTLINES SURVEY

In addition to these two programs he told of the extensive community survey planned by the organization as the main project of the year. Much of the service work being done, said Mr. Graff, is what the post and the community is interested in, but not what is most needed by the community. This year it is proposed to make a survey or inventory of each community in the state, along 10 particular lines: Municipal government, city planning, education, the expansion of the recreation, town and country relation, industry, etc. During the past six months a committee headed by Chief Justice Rosenberry of the Supreme Court and a committee of leading experts at Madison have worked on these schedules.

Through this survey the Legion posts and other service organizations hope to obtain the maximum amount of scientific knowledge of their towns so their work may mean the most to the next generation.

"In the American Legion's program for the disabled, its work with children and its community service work," concluded Commander Graff, "there is not a single selfish purpose, save that alone that when we have followed in the hallowed footsteps of the Grand Army of the Republic the old home town will be a better place in which to live, because it had an American Legion Post."

CHARGE PAIR WITH ASSAULT, BATTERY

Dale Men Arrested Following Alleged Attack on Henry Giebel on Wednesday

Ray Dorschner and Emil Weller, men, Dale pleaded not guilty before Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court of assault and battery Thursday morning and the preliminary hearing was set for Friday afternoon. Dorschner also pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

Both men were arrested Wednesday night by Sheriff John Lappen on complaint of Henry Giebel. Dale, Giebel claimed the pair attacked him about 8 o'clock Wednesday evening on Highway 10 near Dale and severely beat him. The said they attacked him because he had a job driving a snow truck this winter while they, who had held similar jobs last winter, were not engaged again this year. Giebel's face was badly lacerated and scratched and one eye was blackened.

The two men accused of making the attack were held at the jail Wednesday night. Up to Thursday noon they had not furnished $100 bonds each.

PAPER COMPANY FILES CHANGE IN ARTICLES

Articles of incorporation of the Appleton Coated Paper company have been amended, according to papers filed Thursday with A. G. Koch, register of deeds. The papers, according to F. C. Heinritz, secretary, do not provide for any specific changes at this time but merely cover all the changes which have been made during the past 15 years. C. D. Boyd is president of the firm, which is incorporated for $1,250,000.

Sun Helps Plows Open State Roads

Milwaukee—(AP)—Snowplows and a warm sun combined today to quickly restore communication between towns in eastern Wisconsin and upper Michigan, cut off from each other by the freakish spring blizzard.

As far north as Escanaba, Mich., road clearing apparatus was busy pushing aside the huge drifts that a two day snowfall and gale winds piled up. To help them, there was a rapidly rising mercury and a promise from the federal weather bureau that much of the snow would be melted before night.

The snow and winds both disappeared during the night, after keeping a tight grip on lakeshore counties and those adjoining. As a result, railroads, which had kept huge crews at work on their tracks, were back on normal schedules, with but few exceptions.

Dozens of machines were stalled in the drifts, which in some cases reached a height of eight to 10 feet. Garages and towing services were kept busy. There were, however, no reports of suffering or hardship.

FUR COMPANY PLANS OPENING ON SATURDAY

Meagher-Erickson Fur company will hold its formal opening in its new quarters in the Koch building at 231 E. College-ave Saturday morning, under the management of E. H. Meagher. The store and interior of the store has been remodeled and new furniture and equipment has been installed. Fur storage vaults have been built in the basement and a remodeling and repairing department has been added.

REV. JAMES PERRY NAMED NEW CHIEF OF EPISCOPALIANS

Rhode Island Bishop Elected to Succeed Bishop Anderson of Chicago

Chicago—(AP)—The Rt. Rev. James DeWolf Perry, bishop of Rhode Island since 1911, is the new primate of the Protestant Episcopal church in America.

Elected by the house of bishops yesterday, the primate succeeds Charles P. Anderson, bishop of Chicago, who died Jan. 28, last. Of the 134 bishops eligible to vote, 84 gathered in St. James cathedral and after a five-hour session Bishop Perry was named on the seventh ballot, receiving 69 votes—one more than was necessary for election. Seventeen bishops were nominated for the primacy—an honor equal in distinction in the United States to the archbishop of Canterbury in England.

The descendant of an old New England family, Bishop Perry was born on Oct. 3, 1871 in Germantown, Pa., where his father, the late Rev. James DeWolf Perry, was rector of Calvary Episcopal church.

In 1911, he was consecrated bishop of Rhode Island—in office for which his father had once been considered. Before adjourning, the house of bishops adopted a resolution presented by the Rt. Rev. William T. Manning, bishop of New York, uttering a "solemn protest against the religious persecution in Russia, which shocks the moral sense of the civilized world."

Bishop Perry was married in 1908 to Miss Edith Dean Wirtz, daughter of the director of the Yale Art school. They have two sons.

Soon after his election, the primate named the Rt. Rev. Hugh Latimer Burleson, bishop of South Dakota, assistant. Bishop Frederick F. Reese of Chicago, was elected vice chairman of the house.

Before adjourning, the house of bishops adopted a resolution presented by the Rt. Rev. William T. Manning, bishop of New York, uttering a "solemn protest against the religious persecution in Russia, which shocks the moral sense of the civilized world."

Einsten Finds Electricity And Gravitation Related

(Note: Herewith is presented Einstein's latest discovery, his first practical proof of a connection between gravitation and electricity. Its significance is explained by Dr. M. S. Vallarta, Massachusetts Institute of Technology physicist.)

Berlin—(AP)—Prof. Albert Einstein has presented to the Prussian Academy of Sciences a new paper he has written with Dr. W. Mayer on two strictly static solutions of the field equations of his uniform field theory. It connects gravitation and electricity.

These solutions were described as follows: These field equations can be rigorously solved in two cases. The first case is that of a spherically symmetrical field in space, for example, the external field of an electrically charged sphere of fixed mass. The other case is that of the static field of any number of uncharged mass particles at rest with respect to one another.

Cambridge, Mass.—(AP)—Einstein's first practical proof of some mysterious connection between gravitation and electricity is announced in his new paper.

His discovery of mathematical equations which he said prove that gravitation and electricity are related created a world sensation about a year ago. One of the great goals of science is to learn the connection between these two universal forces. Along with light, they affect every moment of human life.

Einstein's first announcement did not attempt to say what the relation is but only that its existence was demonstrated in mathematical formula, which he called field equations. These equations, however, failed to work altogether satisfactorily, and their accuracy was challenged. Einstein modified them seeking to eliminate weak spots. The Berlin dispatch indicates success.

Dr. M. S. Vallarta, assistant professor of physics at Massachusetts Institute of Technology today explained the importance of the Berlin announcement.

"It means," he said, "that Dr. Einstein has found from his latest equations."

WARM WEATHER COMING FORECASTER PREDICTS

Although snow flurries are forecast for the eastern part of Wisconsin and the lake shore, the general forecast for the entire state is that skies may be partly cloudy but that fair weather will predominate Thursday night and Friday.

But the main feature of the forecast is that the temperature will be slightly warmer Friday which means the snow will disappear and spring weather probably is just around the corner. A warm sun that shone occasionally Thursday started much of the snow on its way to the river and with a rise in the mercury chances are the remainder will go rapidly.

The thermometer hit 17 degrees above zero for the low mark Wednesday night but was up to 36 above at noon Thursday.

ORGANIZE BOY SCOUT TROOP AT DALE TONIGHT

Organization of a boy scout troop at Dale will be completed tonight by M. G. Clark, valley council executive. The troop will be a community affair under the direction of Rev. B. O. Grosshuesch. About 12 or 15 boys are expected to make up the troop when organization is complete.

BEG PARDON

Charles Hoffensperger was named as a member of the chamber of commerce director nominating committee at a meeting of the chamber members Tuesday evening at the Elk club. His name was unintentionally omitted when the list was published Wednesday.

RESERVES TO MEET NEW ARMY OFFICER

Major Clarence P. Evers, Green Bay, Will Speak Here Friday

Major Clarence P. Evers, Green Bay, assigned to duty with the organized reserves in that city, will meet with Fox valley reserve officers Friday evening at Conway hotel. Major Evers recently was assigned to this district and is taking Friday's meeting as an opportunity to meet valley officers.

The evening's program will consist of a problem published by the engineering school with Lieut. C. T. Hiber, Ripon, directing the discussion. Major Evers also will talk. An informal dinner is being held prior to the meeting. Reservations should be made before Friday noon with Capt. H. G. Petersen, 63 Oak-land-ave, Oshkosh. The dinner will begin at 6:30. Uniforms will not be required of officers attending the meeting.

Back From Shawano
Circuit Judge Edgar W. Werner returned to Appleton Thursday from Shawano where he had spent the early part of the week presiding at a session of circuit court there. He was accompanied by William H. Kreiss, circuit court reporter.

POLICE GET WARNING ON CHECK "ARTIST"

Police here have been warned to watch for Clarence Fournier, who has been passing bogus checks on the Farmers' Exchange bank of Green Day. The warning was issued by the protective department of the Wisconsin Bankers' association. Fournier has been operating in several Wisconsin cities but no description of the man was available.

ADVISE JUSTICES TO QUALIFY FOR OFFICE

Blank forms were sent out this week by Sydney M. Shannon, clerk of courts, to town, city and village clerks, to aid the justice of peace, elected next Tuesday, to properly qualify for office. In order to qualify, Mr. Shannon said, the justices must file an oath of office and bond with the clerk of courts. In previous years few justices have been complying with this law, Mr. Shannon said, and these blanks are being issued to help the justices fulfill the requirements of law.

ASK CITY CANDIDATES VIEWS ON PROHIBITION

Madison—(CP)—Candidates for mayor and aldermen in Madison today were faced with a questionnaire seeking their views on prohibition. The Dane County League of Women Voters issued the questionnaire. It asks each candidate for his stand on the Gill ordinance which aims to prohibit the sale, manufacture and transportation of intoxicating beverages in the city. The ordinance will be voted upon April 1.

Among the questions asked is: "Do you believe the people of the state of Wisconsin should obey the national laws?"

Cut Stems Under Water To Get Better Boquets

Some flowers often cause much annoyance by refusing to freshen up after they are cut and placed in water in the house, especially if some little time elapses from the time they are cut until they are placed in a vase. This condition may be remedied by cutting the stems under water after they have been taken into the house and not exposing the cut end again to the air.

When the stem is cut in the open air the normal functioning of the plant draws air into the cut stem, forming tiny bubbles. This prevents the circulation of water through the stem and wilt follows. Cutting off a portion of the stem allows the water to circulate and the bloom will freshen up. The receptacle in which the bouquet is to be placed should have sufficient room for water to cover the stems well and at night it is an excellent idea to place the flowers in some container where the stems can be deeply submerged if it is desired to prolong the life of the bouquet.

Another device is to sear the stems over the flame of a gas stove before putting the flowers in water. This is excellent treatment for many kinds of flowers. The stem should be cut just before the searing. Searing closes the passages in the stem and prevents the escape of sap. Poppies need treating by this method to make them stand up well.

It is always better to cut flowers with a sharp knife, making a clean cut instead of the usual methods of scissors which crush the stem. A sharp cut after they are taken in the house is advisable when they have been cut with scissors.

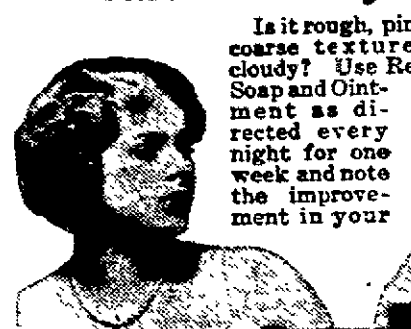

At this season of the year branches of many early blooming shrubs may be cut and brought into the house and placed in vases to open their blooms. The forsythia and pussy willows are much used in this manner. They give a fine example of the effectiveness of simplicity in flower arrangements as a few stems of the straight growing willow and one branch of forsythia will prove much more effective than a thick cluster of tangled branches.

PAID ADVERTISEMENT—$70.56. Prepared, Published and Paid for by City Manager Government Committee, R. O. Schmidt, Chairman; Sarto Balliet, Secretary, 106 N. Oneida Street, Appleton, Wis.

An Open Letter to the VOTERS OF APPLETON

From the very start of this movement for adoption of the city manager plan of government in Appleton this committee has subscribed to the idea that the campaign should be conducted entirely upon the merits of the city manager system. It was and still is our intention to present the issue squarely to the people so that they may determine on the basis of facts presented to them whether they wish to adopt the city manager plan or continue under aldermanic government.

This committee has no quarrel with the present city administration nor with the mayor and the aldermen. We believe, however, that the city will be much better served under the city manager plan which will permit adoption of more business-like methods in the conduct of city affairs.

We have taken pains to investigate city manager government in other cities and we want to know what these other cities have accomplished, and what people generally in those cities think about the city manager plan. We have tried to present these facts honestly and fairly to you, relying upon the intelligence of the voters to determine that city manager government offers opportunities for more efficient handling of city money and business, with consequent savings to the taxpayers.

But some of the opponents to adopting city manager government here are not satisfied to campaign above board and discuss the issues fairly and squarely. Unable or unwilling to take issue with the facts that have been presented to the voters, these opponents of city manager government have resorted to rumors, innuendoes and slanders, the usual weapons of politicians, to discredit the city manager campaign.

Fairness to the voters who ultimately must decide whether the city manager plan is to be adopted here dictates that these subterranean rumors be brought into daylight and discussed honestly and fairly. Voters are entitled to know whether these rumors are based on fact or are merely the vaporings of politicians whose disregard for truth is in direct ratio to their desire to profit unfairly at the taxpayer's expense.

A rumor prevalent in the city is that the city manager movement owes its inception and impetus to grievances that a certain hotel proprietor is alleged to have against the present government. It has been covertly hinted that this individual is seeking a change in the form of government because he dislikes certain persons in the city administration.

The facts are that this hotel man had no part whatsoever in inaugurating this campaign nor in conducting it. It is true that two or three preliminary meetings to discuss the advisability of going before the people with the proposal to change the form of government were held in his hotel, but he did not attend all these meetings. The opinions of this man relative to the way this campaign should be conducted were at great variance from the plan that finally was adopted and he has had no voice nor part in management of the campaign. As a citizen of Appleton he has exactly the same right as any other citizen to indorse this movement and no fault can be found with him or the city manager movement for that.

It also is a fact that the movement for adoption of the city manager campaign was the spontaneous voice of 100 men and women of Appleton who were neither afraid nor ashamed to announce their demand for change in the form of government. It also is a fact that this movement represents the views of the 4,600 citizens of Appleton who attached the signatures to petitions for a special election to vote on this issue. The falsity of the rumor that the city manager campaign represents the grievance of any one individual or group of individuals cannot be established more emphatically than by calling attention to the sponsors of the movement.

Some one with a rapidly working imagination has started the malicious rumor that if the city manager plan is adopted here that the city manager will be Oscar F. Weissgerber, former city engineer here and until recently city manager at San Mateo, Calif. This rumor, fabricated out of whole cloth and without the slightest basis of fact, is typical.

If you, Mr. Voter, will keep your mind on the only issue in this campaign, and that is "Shall We Substitute an Efficient, Economical, Businesslike Conduct of City Affairs for the Wasteful, Extravagant Aldermanic System That We Now Have?" You will go to the poles next Tuesday and vote "YES" for the City Manager Form.

Signed, City Manager Government Committee

NOTED PIANIST IS UNSPOILED BY HIS UNUSUAL SUCCESS

But Music Is the Passion of Valdimir Horowitz, Russian Musician

The person who looks for the so-called "musical temperament" in Valdimir Horowitz, the young Russian pianist who will play his first Appleton concert in Memorial chapel on April 5, is doomed to disappointment. This artist is a modest person, unaffected by the tremendous success which has followed him through a very brilliant concert experience, and with his interest still centered in his music.

Music is his passion. During the winter months he is constantly before the public, but during the summer he indulges in other joys of life, relaxing on the sands of the Riviera. He loves to swim and like to dance and motor. He is an attractive, likeable man, but he never allows anything to interfere with his real love, that of his piano.

When he was younger, that is, when he was very young, since he is only 25 now he composed works for piano, voice and for quartets. He has, however, given up composing entirely, preferring to develop his pianism into the finished art which it is rapidly becoming. The only one of his works which has been presented to the public is his variations on two themes from "Carmen," which is so difficult that the arrangement of the same themes composed by Busoni a generation ago, has been called "child's play" in comparison. He will play this number as the closing group on his program here.

ONLY 1 COUNTY USES DEFERRED TAX PLAN

A survey of the counties of the state to determine how many are taking advantage of the new state law permitting the collection of taxes in two payments, instead of one, is being made by Ford H. McGregor of the municipal information bureau of the extension division of the University of Wisconsin, according to John E. Hantschel, county clerk. Mr. Hantschel has already supplied Mr. McGregor with the information on Outagamie-co. The county board here deferred action on a resolution to adopt the plan for one year. Mr. McGregor said that he had received replies from about half the counties and so far only one, Calumet, had adopted the plan. A number of others, however, have resolutions on the matter pending.

SURVEY SHOWS 50,397 ILLITERATES IN STATE

Wisconsin, with 50,397 illiterates, is fourteenth from the top in a list of all states in illiteracy, according to a report received by A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools from the national board on the prevention of illiteracy. The state is seventeenth from the top in percentage of native white illiterates. The percentage of illiteracy ranges from 0.7 in Walworth-co to 10.8 per cent in Walworth-co. There were found to be 25,593 illiterates in rural districts and 24,804 in urban districts.

"KONJOLA WORKED SO SPLENDIDLY I WAS ASTOUNDED"

Lady Tells How New Medicine
Ended Stomach Trouble After All Else Tried Failed

MRS. DIETRICK BOLTE

"Konjola worked so splendidly that I was astounded," said Mrs. Dietrick Bolte, Box 24, St. Donatus, Ia., near Dubuque. "My stomach was so disordered that my health in general was affected. Everything I ate formed quantities of gas. I had belching spells, and sickening, splitting headaches. This condition grew steadily worse until I became very nervous. And the discouraging thing was that not a medicine or treatment I tried did the least bit of good."

"Friends kept urging me to try Konjola, and finally I consented to do so. This new medicine gave me no opportunity to become discouraged for it went right to work. Pains were swept from my system and health surged back. Headaches disappeared and have never returned; nerves were quieted, and then my digestion was restored. All my new health I owe to Konjola and I endorse it with all my heart."

Cheap Cosmetics Ruin Many Women's Beauty

Madison — More natural beauty of women have been ruined by dangerous paints and cheap cosmetics than by any other method. There are harmless toilet preparations which benefit the skin, but "there are thousands of others on the market so dangerous as to transform the beauty of a Cleopatra into the visage of a hag."

For months, studies have been made as the improvements of skin by toilet preparations, and the Educational Committee of the State Medical Society of Wisconsin in a bulletin today declares that many of the cheaper preparations do a positive harm. A pamphlet on the subject has just been sent to all libraries by the American Medical Association which covers the findings generally.

"Age itself cannot work the havoc in the beauty of women which some cheap, dangerous cosmetics do," declares the Wisconsin Medical Bulletin. "There are some unscrupulous manufacturers who do not hesitate to use harmful and even dangerous chemicals in toilet preparations, so long as they can sell them at a profit."

"Serious cases of poisoning have resulted from the use of hair dyes and face creams containing lead, arsenic in hair tonic has caused trouble in some instances. Severe attacks of illness have been traced to the use of so-called rice powder containing bismuth. Certain face creams, skin bleaches and hair dyes have been found to contain corrosive sublimate, a preparation of mercury. One chemical with a very long name, sometimes used in hair dyes, is so dangerous that its use is prohibited in two or three European countries. Wood alcohol, has been used in some toilet preparations. The repeated applications of these poisonous preparations has resulted sometimes in severe and unsightly skin eruptions, and at other times in much more serious illness."

"Unfortunately one cannot tell from looking at toilet preparations whether they are safe to use or not. For this reason it is best to buy only those which are put out by firms known to be reliable, especially avoiding those for which extravagant claims are made. The American Medical Association has published a pamphlet on 'Cosmetic Nostrums and Allied Preparations,' which most public libraries probably have. This gives the facts about many widely advertised preparations."

"Many toilet preparations are both safe and useful. As for the use of rouges and other preparations commonly classified by the uninitiated under the head 'powder and paint,' these preparations undoubtedly have a legitimate field of usefulness. Nevertheless, one has but to walk down the main street of almost any city or village to discover young women who have made a signal failure in their attempts to improve on the handiwork of Nature and make themselves look like 'movie queens.' Some of them are not only defeating the efforts of Nature to make them good looking and attractive, but are jeopardizing their health at the same time."

MODERNISTIC BEDS LATEST IN PARIS

Although They Are Made of Concrete, They Are Quite Comfortable

BY AILEEN LAMONT

New York—(CFA)—They are making some extraordinary modernistic beds in Paris just now for modernistic bedrooms and apartments, of specially treated concrete, pointed in gorgeous geometric designs, these beds are more comfortable than the description sounds. Several up-to-date apartments have built-in concrete beds in their livingrooms.

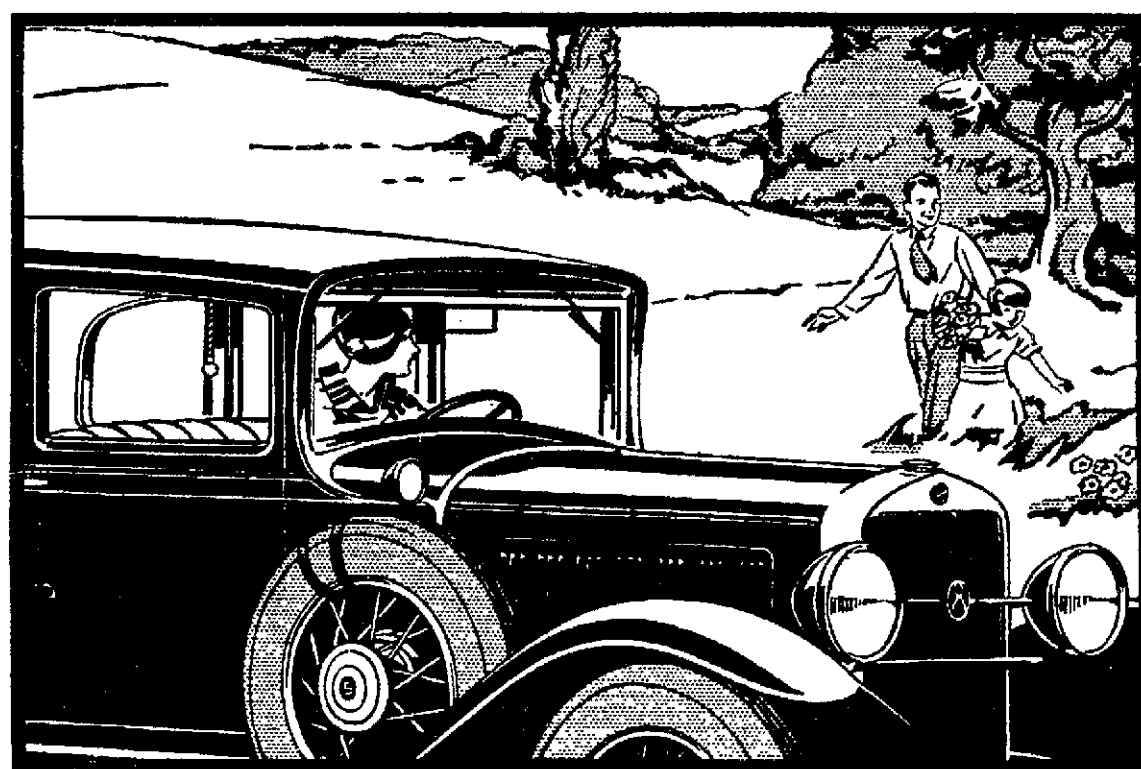

Tweed is always popular in England, whether fashionable or not; and now that tweed is very swanky, it is no wonder the London dress designers are doing beautiful things with it. For summer, they display frocks and ensembles in a feather-weight tweed no thicker than jersey, with a decided preference for glowing plaids.

Most of the new hats, whether straw or silk, have a pleated quirk above one eye. This allows the brow to rise above the one eye and drip over the other; a "ripple," the milliners like to call it. On the whole the effect is somewhat flirtatious, of course, you could have the quirk ironed out if you prefer, though they do say that even in 1930 the art of flirting was not unknown to the womanly woman.

MUSSOLINI VISITS MODERN ART EXHIBIT

Rome—(P)—Premier Mussolini today took two hours of his time to visit an exposition of modern art under the auspices of the Fascist Syndicate Artists of Latin province, and another group. He chatted with the exhibitors, proving himself a connoisseur and critic.

Previously the premier had wired congratulations to Guglielmo Marconi on the latter's transmission of energy 11,000 miles by wireless yesterday. Senator Marconi had transmitted sufficient energy to turn on the lights of an electrical exposition at Sydney, Australia, at the same time carrying on a two-day radio telephone conversation.

"The new proof of your genius makes the entire nation thrill with just pride," said the premier's message.

Wisconsin Weather

Mostly fair tonight and Friday, with some cloudiness; slightly warmer Friday in northwest portion.

General Weather

Fair weather prevails over most of the country this morning, except in the lake region and a section of Texas and New Mexico, where snow and chilly frosts have been reported. The lake region is blanketed with a layer of snow as a result of a severe storm which is now centered over the St. Lawrence Valley. Fresh to strong winds still prevail in the lower lakes. Escanaba, Mich., reports 10 inches of snow on the ground this morning. Fair and continued cold is expected in this section tonight and Friday, with the lowest tonight between 15 and 20 degrees.

TWO SPEAKERS HIT AT MANAGER PLAN AT MEETINGS HERE

Mayor Armstrong of Racine Attacks Power Company Man on Council

With 66 people in attendance at the high school including a number of city officials, Mayor William H. Armstrong of Racine last night assailed the city manager plan of government and at the same time entered an emphatic protest against having an employee of the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co., serve as a member of the Appleton city council. Mayor Armstrong also spoke at Roosevelt junior high school, alternating at both schools with Attorney John W. Kelly of Rhineland.

Mayor Armstrong told his audience that some years ago an employee of the power company at Racine was elected to the council and the mayor served notice on this man that he either must resign his employment with the power company or leave the council. He resigned from the council, Mayor Armstrong said.

The mayor referred to the city manager as a dictator who runs the city and declared that the council is bound to accept the recommendations of the mayor. Mr. Armstrong attacked Kenosha's claims for economy, declaring that comparisons of costs between Kenosha and Racine are difficult because of differences in the way costs are reported. This he said, was especially true of pavement costs. He declared that Kenosha pays its city manager $9,500 a year and "he wasn't worth it."

Mr. Kelly assailed the city manager record in Rhineland, denying that it was more efficient than Racine's and declared that both men pointed out alleged deficiencies in the city manager law, Mayor Armstrong declaring that the manager cannot be removed by the council if the manager chooses to fight.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

SUE glanced down the table to the place where Corinne was seated by Harry Becker's young cousin, Clifford Becker. He was a tall youth slender and well built, with a rather weak face that women might have called handsome but no man ever would. He was plainly bored with life and still amused with it. And Corinne was something new and alive and vital. He watched her with a mixture of pleasure and tolerance on his face.

Sue had sensed that Harry had not all together approved of the boy, either.

"He's had too much money to use as he pleased and it's spoiled him. He's just here for a couple of weeks till his college opens," Harry told Sue, almost as though he had read her thoughts.

Sue nodded but inwardly she was wondering just what her sister and Clifford Becker were going. Clifford had suggested that they take a spin in his car. She had agreed and then had added a chance remark about the party she was supposed to look in on. He had assented. Wouldn't Bob's eyes open? Corinne felt a delicious thrill through her whole body.

Sue was glad that the dinner was ending. She was tired of watching Jack and Barbara talking together in a gay intimacy that shut the rest of the table away. If only he had chosen a girl who was worthy of him! But Barbara wasn't. And she had gone hunting in the forest and chased him up a tree. But just the same, she had got him, and then she was the thing that mattered. Suddenly Mr. Becker's voice, with a kindly teasing in its depths, interrupted her reverie.

"While we're all here together, why not set the date for the wedding, Sue?" he asked.

Sue's hand was resting lightly on the stem of her water goblet which she had just replaced but at his words she grasped it more tightly.

"We want it soon, Sue," Nancy added. "Don't you think that is best, Mrs. Merrymann?"

It seemed to Sue that the table was filled suddenly with strange people, all of whom were in a compact to marry her off as quickly as they could. When the date was set... that would be final! Her fingers pressed the stem of the goblet and it broke into a thousand pieces of shimmering crystal.

"Oh, I'm so sorry," she began but something in her that had been taut and tight was loosened. "I think I'm still nervous, that's all."

"Of course you are, and I beg your pardon," Harry's father was contrite at once. "We won't talk about the wedding till you're all right."

Sue flashed him a grateful smile. She knew she would like Harry's father. The rest of the evening was a colorful blur of voices and faces until Harry suggested that she and Jack and Barbara slip away, as Clifford and Corinne had done. His father and Nancy understood, he insisted. "Besides, I have a surprise for you," he added.

NEXT: Corinne carries out her plan.

CITY VOTERS TO CAST BALLOTS FOR JUSTICE

Besides voting on the city manager and aldermanic forms of government, and 19 city officials, Appleton voters will cast their ballot for a justice of the supreme court at the general election on Tuesday. The justice is to be chosen to succeed Justice Chester A. Fowler, who was appointed by Governor Walter J. Kohler in April, 1929, to succeed Chief Justice And J. Vinje, deceased.

Candidates from among whom the electors will make their choice are John W. Reynolds, present attorney general of Wisconsin; Attorney Raymond J. Cannon, and Judge Fowler, who is a candidate for reelection.

WIFE DIVORCED FROM PHILANDER KNOX, JR.

Counsel told the court that a monetary settlement had been reached privately, under which Mrs. Knox will receive $300 monthly for the support of herself and her two children. Knox did not appear, but was represented by counsel.

The Knoxes were married in West Virginia in 1917 shortly after he had been divorced from Mary Gertrude Boler, a shop girl. Mrs. Knox sued for separate maintenance in 1925 and was awarded at that time $323 a month.

It's Always Fair Weather When Good Values Get Together

And since our HALF YEAR SALE WEEK is one of the greatest get-togethers of good values that Appleton has seen, we're inclined to think that, regardless of the condition underfoot, it's mighty fine shopping weather.

In fact, the tremendous crowds that thronged FUSFIELD'S STORE on Monday, and the really considerable numbers that were here Tuesday—in spite of the worst Spring blizzard on record—confirm our opinion that CELEBRATION WEEK IN FUSFIELD'S FIRST HALF YEAR has, and will continue to provide, the best values, regardless of weather that Appleton's seen in many a generation.

It's a regular convention of good values! And a lot of good critics are proving their recognition of good values, good weather or bad, by shopping at FUSFIELD'S in this HALF YEAR SALE WEEK CELEBRATION... proving that any day is a fair day that provides a fair means of SAVING A DOLLAR! All of which proves beyond question that it's a modern celebration of

YOUNGSTOWN ALL EXCITED AS STEEL MERGER LOOMS UP

City as a Whole Objects to Proposed Consolidation With Bethlehem

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON

Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
Youngstown, O.—The steel industry is fighting a battle here which has put capital on a soap box, all but depopulated the Youngstown club, resort of steel millionaires, and made one of those usually well oiled and noiseless mergers look like a hot political campaign or a world series.
J. C. Campbell, one-time undertaker's assistant and ice man, and now chairman of the board of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube company, wants to merge the company with the Bethlehem Steel corporation. Thirty years ago, Mr. Campbell founded the Youngstown company, scraping it together out of a few odds and ends, and by his efficient management and financial genius made it the fourth largest unit in the world. But he is now 75 and after a recent visit to Youngstown by Charles M. Schwab and Eugene Grace, of the Bethlehem corporation, announced his support of a merger plan by which one share of Youngstown would be exchanged for one and one-half shares of Bethlehem.

Excitement, high prices, rates, the Pittsburgh base rate and other factors made the merger imperative, said Mr. Campbell.
This town is built into a matrix of steel. It has a highly inflammable civic pride in the Youngstown Sheet & Tube company. No derby winner carrying the family silks to victory and lifting the mortgage on the farm was ever cheered more lustily than this old company, coming down the home stretch with the dividends. When it was announced two weeks ago that dear old Youngstown Sheet might be sold down the river, there was first a proxy battle, confined to stockholders, and then it was everybody's fight.

NEED 400,000 SHARES
About 20 per cent of the 12,000,000 shares of Sheet & Tube are held in Youngstown and 70 per cent in Ohio. The opponents of the merger, led by Cyrus Stephen Eaton, Cleveland banker and industrialist, must garner more than 400,000 shares to defeat the merger when it comes to an issue here on April 8. Rival headquarters of Sheet & Tube interests are bombarding stockholders with statements, appeals, arguments and predictions of disaster if the merger is or is not carried through. Today, opponents of the merger are claiming victory. They say their side already has more than enough proxies collected.

Just now there is a bulletin out that "Bonesetter" is out against the merger, having at first endorsed it. Mr. Bonesetter, by special dispensation of the Ohio legislature, is bonesetter extraordinary to big league pitchers who unjoint themselves in the line of duty. His announcement that he would vote his Youngstown stock against the merger was regarded as a telling blow for the isolationists.

"This highly democratized and publicized popular interest is flaming up all through this smoky Mahoning valley. It is unique in the history of American industrial battles.
"We won't be a payroll town," is the cry of the recalcitrants. There are five generations of steel families here, such as the Wicks, the Tambaughes and the Butlers. They are proud of their management, then share in ownership, and their independence, and they assert the Bethlehem alliance would throw them in with European cartels. They fight against "foreign entanglements." An impassioned city councilman invoked Patrick Henry on "liberty or death" in denouncing the merger, and the council voted five to one against the merger.

COUNCIL IS EMPHATIC
This outlook has observed no other instance in which a city council has taken a hand in a $900,000,000 steel merger. It may be one of the first fruits of "democratized finance," of which Professor Carver writes.
This writer called on Cyrus Stephen Eaton, who is here from Cleveland to direct the anti-merger fight. Mr. Eaton, once a minister, went in for banking and took the Republic Steel company and ran it up to a $350,000,000 concern, the third largest steel company in the United States. Within the last three years Mr. Eaton has flamed up like one of his own blast furnaces in his skilled and daring financial maneuvers. He was ready to talk unbanally and pleasantly about anything except the steel merger. The inquirer, however, was directed to another responsible person who summarized the position of the merger opponents as follows.
"The Bethlehem offer of one and one-half shares for one of Youngstown is not enough. One and two-thirds would have been more plausible, but even this would not have been enough. Youngstown has not missed a dividend in 30 years, while Bethlehem has paid only one dividend in the last six years.
"The Republic and Youngstown companies in cooperation could carry through the canalization project which would give Youngstown an outlet to both Lakes Erie and Ohio. Proponents of the merger have urged that only the Bethlehem company could carry this through.
"Youngstown Sheet & Tube is ideally located to supply automobile steel

NORTHWESTERN U. PROFS GET LARGE SALARY INCREASES

Evanston, Ill.—(P)—Members of the Northwestern university liberal arts faculty paid little heed to snowdrifts as they ploughed to class today—they were thinking of the 33 per cent salary increase approved by the board of trustees.
Under the new scale, recommended by President Walter Dill Scott and adopted yesterday, professors will receive from $7,000 to $10,000; associate professors, $5,500 to $7,000; assistant professors, $4,000 to $5,500; and instructors, $2,400 to $3,500.
The increase was part of the development plan outlined in the $8,500,000 bequest to the liberal arts college by the late Milton H. Winslow, Chicago haberdashery manufacturer.

1,000 MINERS STRIKE IN WESTERN KENTUCKY
Madisonville, Ky.—(P)—Approximately 1,000 miners were on strike in the western Kentucky coal field today, though a vote favoring a strike for a higher wage scale, taken last fall, has never been acted on by national officers of the United Mine Workers of America.
The strikes have all resulted from local disputes, and none is formally recognized by the officers of District 23 of the union.
The latest group to go out are employees of the Duvin Coal company at Providence, Webster-co. Four hundred men walked out there yesterday when the management refused to reinstate a machinist, Essel Grant, who was laid off after his return from the Mine Workers' convention at Indianapolis.
Unfavorable conditions in the field, evidenced by a suit of the operators attacking freight rates before the Interstate Commerce commission, and the recent federal report for 1929 showing a reduction in production of more than 2,000,000 tons from the preceding year, are reflected in an announcement two mines are to be shut down April 1, making 600 more men jobless.

PROMINENT NEGROES DIVORCED IN PARIS

Paris.—(P)—Nina Ylande Dubois Cullen was granted a divorce today from Countee Cullen, Negro. She is the daughter of William DuBois, Negro writer and director of the publications for the "National Association for Advancement of Colored People." They were married in Brooklyn, April 9, 1928, later coming to France to live.

to Cleveland, Toledo, Flint, Detroit and other centers of automobile manufacturing. It already supplies 60 per cent of such steel for the other side in which is moving westward. Youngstown does not need an eastern outlet. It can thrive on western and mid-western demand."
Mr. Campbell, highly respected in this community and credited with a magnificent performance in building up Sheet & Tube has issued a convincing stationery on the other side in which he maintains that the world economies of steel have made the isolation of Youngstown no longer possible. But one does not need to go to representatives of the steel companies for arguments and reasons. You can get them at any cigar store or drug store.

Swiftest Way To End Eczema

Says Alabama Man

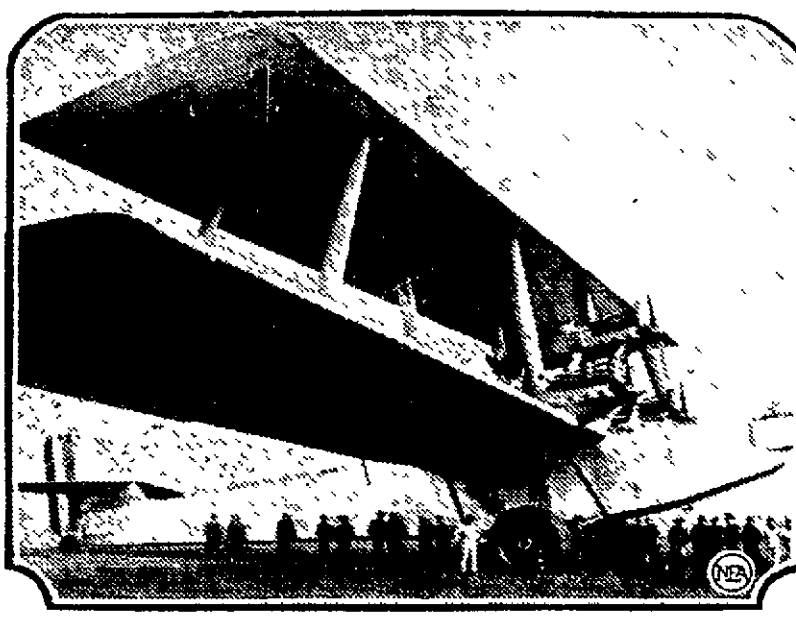

There is not an excuse in the world for a person to suffer with fiery Eczema. Yet how many people do you see with ugly skins which spoil their whole appearance!
What you want to do is abolish every trace of eczema with Peterson's Ointment, for years nationwide famous for speedily ending Eczema.
The first application of Peterson's takes out the inflammation, brings blessed relief from that painful itching.
Repeated use of this powerfully soothing, healing Ointment assures a marvelously smooth delicate skin.
Mr. A. W. Turner of Birmingham, Ala., writes: "Was troubled for about 2 yrs. with eczema and after I used Peterson's Ointment for about 4 or 5 times, my trouble entirely disappeared."
One application of Peterson's Ointment will stop the burning and itching of Eczema and one 35c box will prove it—at all drugstores. adv.

Largest Land Plane in World

Largest land plane in the world is this sky giant designed and built by Gianni Caproni, noted Italian inventor. The monster craft is pictured here in Italy, where it soared to new records—a height of 1745 feet with a cargo of 22,000 pounds—and remained in the air for more than an hour and a half. This was claimed to be a new mark for height and duration for planes carrying a load of this weight.

NEW GERMAN FLOUR RAY CLAIMED DISEASE CURE

Hamburg.—(P)—A new procedure for vitalizing food is claimed by a grain company here.
Dr. von Hahn, director of the biological-colloid station of the Eppendorfer hospital, says the process utilizes radiation to produce vitamins for specific use in disease. He says flour so treated can be baked directly into bread which is good for rickets.
An attempt will be made to utilize the process on fruit as an antidote for the dreaded sailors' disease, scurvy.

PARIS MAIDS SCORN GOOD GIRL DOWRIES

Ancient Custom of French Marriage System Losing Popularity

Paris.—(P)—Dowries the backbone of the French marriage system are going begging.
The Paris Poor Relief has six $400 dowries a year to award to maids who measure up to certain conditional standards—and many other cities have similar funds, some with prices of $1,400. But there are few takers.
Many of the dowries are hedged with conditions to which the poor girl subscribed but which cause the 1930 feminine model to hunch with disdain. There are dowries for those who wear their hair long, or go to church regularly, or help with the housework, or support their parents and all place a time limit on marriage.
Still there are hundreds of these awarded each year, many of them to "rosaries." This is the term applied to girls chosen in villages or towns as the most worthy and who are crowned with roses at a public ceremony.
This custom is 15 centuries old. It originated with St. Medard, bishop of Noyon, and wealthy for these days. He set aside part of his property for this purpose and in 553 at Salency crowned his sister who was chosen by the village as worthy of her clerical brother's bounty. The custom still continues there and has spread to other communities.

Happy Woman Tells How She Lost 19 Pounds of Fat In 27 Days

During October a woman in Montana wrote—"My first bottle of Kruschen Salts lasted almost 4 weeks and during that time I lost 19 pounds of fat—Kruschen is all you claim for it—I feel better than I have for years."
Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses.
Every morning take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast. Be sure and do this every morning for "It's the little daily dose that takes off the fat."—Don't miss a morning. The Kruschen habit means that every particle of poisonous waste matter and harmful acids and gases are expelled from the system.
At the same time the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are toned up and the pure, fresh blood containing Nature's six life giving salts are carried to every organ, gland, nerve and fibre of the body and this is followed by "that Kruschen feeling" of energetic health and activity that is reflected in bright eyes, clear skin, cheerful vivacity and charming figure.
If you want to lose fat with speed get an 85c bottle of Kruschen Salts from Schlitz Bros. Co. 3 stores, or any live druggist anywhere in America with the distinct understanding that you must be satisfied with results or money back. adv.

ADISON—After battling on even terms with Wausau in the first half, Neenah high school cagers pulled the biggest upset of the state tourney last night by eliminating the Lumberjacks in a desperate last half rally that netted them 12 points, and a 23 to 13 victory.

At no time after the second half started was there any doubt as to the outcome of the battle. Both teams took the floor at the start of the final half with the count knotted 11 all. Schmidt broke the tie, making good a gift shot after he was fouled by Lohr, and immediately after counted two more points with a beautiful one handed shot from the side of the court, after he had received the tip off from Bell, lanky center. Taking the lead 14 to 11 Neenah was never headed. It played a slow breaking offensive game that had the North-easters bewildered, and time after time broke through the strong Wausau defense for pot shots.

Neenah drew first blood after the opening whistle when Schmidt, diminutive forward for the "Rockets" scored a goal from the field to give Neenah a two point lead. Wausau was not to be denied and came back to score seven points on baskets by Swinbank and Whiting and a free throw by Lohr.

Wausau was using a fast breaking offensive, led by Bell, all-state center, and found little difficulty in getting by the Neenah guards. With Wausau in the lead, Neubauer was substituted for Johnson and at once the "Big Red" team started to function. Bell and Schmidt found the net for Neenah after Wausau had taken a 11 to 7 lead and tied the score at the half.

Neenah held Wausau to a lone field goal in the second half, while they amassed a total of 12 points. Neenah's offensive functioned perfectly the second half and Wausau had to attempt all of its shots from mid floor.

Bell and Schmidt were the high scorers for Neenah, the former counting nine points and the latter ten on four field goals and two free throws. Swinbank played the best game for the losers. He scored eight points and played a fine floor game.

The entire Neenah team played a great brand of basketball and the game proved to be one of the best seen on the local court in several years.

YANKEES BEGIN LONG EXHIBITION SERIES

Jacksonville, Fla.—(AP)—The New Yankees evidently believe that the longest way around is the most profitable route home. They left their St. Petersburg training camp yesterday, coming here for today's first game of the exhibition series that will take them back to New York. From here there route will take them 2,000 miles west as Texas, then back through Arkansas, Tennessee and North Carolina, arriving in New York to start their annual series against Brooklyn April 12.

FIGHT MANAGERS SUGGEST PLAN FOR EPIDEMIC OF FOULS

Would Count Out Fouled Fighter and Then Have Doctor Examine Him

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK—(AP)—The ancient and orderly of fight managers, the gray heads who should know, have a few thousand words to say on the subject of the foul plague that is tearing today at the throat of their favorite pastime.

The cry for some action, some legislation that will definitely curb the evil, has reached such a pitch within the past few months that a half dozen boxing commissions have increased penalties for low punching. Lawmakers are watching the political weathervane for the possibility of repealing the Walker boxing law in New York state. So far the fight profession itself has had no opportunity to suggest a cure.

But the managers have a cure. In fact they have three, all decisive, and strongly on the side of the fighter. The first is to count out a fighter who goes to the floor claiming foul. It would punish the scant minority of the innocent who really have been hit low with the great majority of the guilty who either are deliberately faking or are taking advantage of a technicality.

This suggestion, is built around the idea that no good fighter will stay on the floor, four or no foul, if he knows that the referee is about to count him out.

Jimmy Bronson, chief second of Gene Tunney, adds one qualification to that plan. He would permit examination by a physician after the match and a reversal of the decision if the loser had been badly fouled.

The chief counter cure is offered by Jimmy Tolman, manager of Phil Scott, whose claims of foul started most of the clamor. Jimmy insists that rules are rules and should be enforced, that most fouls start in a fighter's corner where seconds encourage him to foul until warned, that more drastic penalties should be applied and include the foul puncher's manager, seconds and even close relations. Jimmy insists that referees and fighters at times for trying to save wagers by fouling out when losing.

The mildest reform comes from Ike Dorgan, former aide to Tex Rickard at Madison Square Garden. Ike would allow no disqualification for foul, give the claimant a five minute rest, punish the offender by taking points from him, but keep the boys at their tasks if it took all night.

IOLA HIGH SCHOOL WINS CAGE TOURNAMENT

Taylor of Winning Team is Individual Star of Tournament

IOLA—By defeating Coloma 34 to 5 in the supplementary basketball tournament held here last week, Iola high school team won first place in the meet. Green Lake was awarded third place by defeating Rosholt 23 to 18.

Iola began its march to the top by defeating Hancock 24 to 2 and Green Lake 24 to 11, Thursday, and Friday respectively.

The following all tournament team was picked by the officials: Forwards Taylor, Iola, and Chapel, Green Lake, guards Amosson, Iola, and Loope, Iola; center, Plotz, Coloma. Taylor, Iola, was easily the individual star of the tournament, sinking ten field goals in the final game.

Oconto Beats Rapids While Superior Tumbles Neenah; Title Game Today

Two more games were played on Wednesday in the basketball tournament being held at Appleton high school with entrants from the sophomore class and from the junior high schools. Oconto downed Wisconsin Rapids in an overtime battle 18 and 15, and Superior humbled Neenah, 13 and 7.

The Rapids-Oconto game was tied up by Kieck of the Rapids aggregation with just three seconds left to play in the regular period. In the overtime, the Oconto five crashed to the front and won. Shannon and Kieck starred for the Rapids team, and Mortell and Blake for the Oconto five.

Bowly and Huhn starred in the Superior victory over Neenah. Priber's efforts to keep his team in the running failing to accomplish the trick.

Thursday afternoon Superior and Oconto will play for the tourney championship. The various teams have taken names of teams entered in the state tourney at Madison.

ASK Y. M. C. A. ENTER TEAM IN HANDBALL MEET

Appleton Y. M. C. A. has been asked to send a doubles hand ball team to Milwaukee, April 4 and 5 to participate in the annual state double tournament at the Y. M. C. A. gym there. Whether the team will be entered depends upon the outcome of a city tourney now being held at the local association. If the winners wish to enter the state meet they probably will be granted the privilege.

COMMISSION'S BAN AND ILLNESS PUT CRIMP IN PROGRAM

Show Will Begin at 8:30 With Bout Between Lawrence Boxers

BECAUSE the state boxing commission stepped in and banned Harold Cottor, Kaukauna, for failure to appear in a Green Bay ring last week and because of the illness of Bob Billington, Neenah, three changes have been made in the bouts for tonight.

The semi-windup which was to have featured Cottor will now show Wally Whitman of De Pere and a Milwaukeean named Tom Decrest. The boys will come in at 150 pounds.

A third New London boxer will show tonight with the change in the program. He is Clate Kellogg, and will meet Emil Wilson of Wauwaua. They will weigh 148 pounds. The card is to take the place of the Billington fight, because of the latter's illness.

Another change brings John Berg of Milwaukee to replace Kid Douglas of Menasha on tonight's card. The Milwaukeean will meet Claude Sack of New London. The weights of the boys will be about 155 pounds.

The three remaining fights on the card will remain unless there are last minute changes. As usual the bouts are scheduled to begin at 8:30, the curtain raiser featuring two Lawrence boxers fighting for the 125 pound title at the college.

MACK THINKS TEAM LOOKS LIKE CHAMPS

Fort Myers, Fla.—(AP)—Manager Connie Mack will start north tomorrow, satisfied that the Athletics are about ready for the season's campaign. "The A's look better than at this time last year," Mack said. Barring accidents Mack will start with his world series lineup. Young players likely to be retained are McNair, Williams, Keesey, Cramer and Mahaffey.

Manitowoc Forward Set Single Game Record Last Week Against Chairs

By setting a new individual scoring record for a single game in the Fox River Valley conference at Manitowoc last Friday night in the Sheboygan game "Shorty" Galbraith, pushed his lead for individual scoring honors for the season in the conference, to 33 points. He collected 66 points on 35 baskets and 26 free throws, leading Wagner, Oshkosh forward, who was second and gathered 63 points on 27 baskets and nine free throws, by 33 points.

Galbraith's greatest effort was in his final game in a Red and White uniform when he sank seven baskets and seven free throws against the Chairs. He certainly wound up his athletic career in the proverbial "blaze of glory."

Third place in the conference scoring went to Tolzman, the flashy Fond du Lac forward and captain who amassed 50 points on 29 baskets and 19 free throws. Brey and Kohls of Manitowoc, landed in eleventh and twelfth places with 29 and 38 points respectively. The following is the final summary of the season:

Madison Central established itself as a contender in the lower bracket by thumping Richland Center, 21 to 10. The Orange and Black defense kept Richland Center's two stars, Kennedy, forward, and Smith, center, well tied, and each made only a field goal.

Superior Central, a "dark horse," which barely squeezed through the district tournament, routed the Lumberjacks in a decisive style. The Centrals jumped to a 10 to 5 lead at the half, and coasted home easily. Centrals' pressing game was good, but its shooting off form.

Mug' Hooley, 16-year old 98 pound basketball bantam, pulled his Monroe five from defeat to a dashed 15 to 11 in victory over Colby. The budget "parking" edged half his team's points and played a heady floor game. Tomah started fast to gain an 11 to 6 lead, but wilted before the slow, deceptive Monroe at last.

GOOSE GOSLIN OFFERED $10,000 AND BONUS
Chattanooga, Tenn.—(AP)—With no game booked for today, the Senators were scheduled for a fast work out. A long siege of batting practices will be called if Manager Johnson holds to plans of getting hitting eyes ready for the season. The Senators are angling for a game with the New York Giants tomorrow.

Cold winds kept the team off the diamond yesterday, but President Griffith kept things warm by releasing a statement regarding the Goslin salary dispute. In a letter addressed to Goslin he said:

"It has been my intention all along to give you a straight contract for $10,000 and for you to leave it up to me to give you a bonus for whatever amount above your contract that you work for the season warrants."

Kansas City—Primo Carneira, Italy, knocked out George Trafton, (Chicago, Ill.), Meyer Grace, Chicago, stopped Ivan Lafineur, France (6).

GEORGE TRAFTON KNOCKED OUT BY PRIMO CARNERA

Chicago Football Star Is No Match for Italian Heavy-weight

KANSAS CITY — (P) — Primo Carnera, giant Italian carpenter, today boasted twelve knockouts in as many appearances in American boxing rings, the result of a 54 second victory here last night over George Trafton, erstwhile Chicago football professional.

The heavyweight match, scheduled for ten rounds, ended after Trafton fell to the canvas for the third time, the 8,000 fans present boomed and jeered.

At the bell Trafton rushed across the ring at the towering Italian. After a mild embrace he fell to the floor on his stomach. At the count of six the ex-football player arose and again charged across the canvas. Carnera's big hand swung, and again Trafton fell.

The foreigner walked to his corner, placed his hands on the ropes, and gazed at the crowd. Trafton climbed to his feet at the count of nine, hurried across the ring, and clouted his giant opponent in the back.

Carnera then turned quickly and the Chicagoan fell for the count beneath a flurry of rights and lefts. A short right hand jab to the chin ended the fight.

The best fight on the card was the semi-windup between Ivan Laffineur, billed as the welterweight champion of France, and Meyer Grace, of Chicago. Grace was awarded a technical knockout in the sixth when Laffineur claimed a foul but a physician, after an examination, said there was no evidence of a low blow.

Young Jack Dillon, Louisville, won a newspaper decision over Sammy Dessalvo, Omaha, in a 10 round bout. Both weighed 155 pounds.

Sports Question Box

Question—Do pitchers go direct from semi-pro baseball to the big leagues?

Answer—They can go. It is merely a question of the manager's opinion of their worth. In these days there is so much opportunity for minor league practice that they are usually sent to the minors for a season.

Question—How old was the late Stan Ketchell when he was shot and killed?

Answer—Born in Sept. 1887, killed Oct. 1919. Twenty-three years old.

Question—May a ball player in the major leagues take part in games if he does not have a contract?

Answer—No.

Question—Did Dempsey hit Sharkey low in their fight which ended in K. O. against Sharkey?

Answer—Several of the blows leading to his fall looked low.

Personality Great Aid To The Successful Coach

BY LAWRENCE PERRY
Copyright 1930

NEW YORK—How a young man gets on in the world is being very impressively demonstrated by Jimmy Phelan these days. Not long ago, having resigned as head football coach at Purdue to fill the vacancy at the university of Washington, he went out to the high northwest to start spring practice.

He has been there only a few weeks and in that time has become an exemplar to whom all parents refer in admonishing their sons, an oracle on all subjects pertaining to college education, the white haired boy of the faculty and the idol of all students whether or not they play football.

Jimmy Phelan has an appealing personality and magnetic as well. He understands humanity and never fails to win the right sort of person. And right at the start in his essential occupation that of football coaching, he had demonstrated qualities of fact and sagacity.

For one thing, he has just called a halt to all work of the football squad—practice began March 15 — ordering them to concentrate upon their spring term exams and forget about the gridiron game for two weeks, when they will again be summoned to the field.

As one may imagine Phelan's novel action has made no end of a hit with members of the faculty. At the same time he has given the football players a practical impression that university life is not one grand football game.

Phelan, of course, had some purposes of his own other than those relating to scholarship in declaring this recess. It is his idea that an interlude in the spring season when youth inclines to laziness will keep their minds more freshly attuned to the lessons he is trying to teach and that physically the results will be beneficial.

His personality and his ability to organize have already told in the establishment of a high morale among the husky footballers. They are enthusiastic, have become football-minded and they will return to him after their two week's vacation full of zest. Phelan has had nine eleven at practice and all of them contain excellent material. In past seasons two teams have been the limit.

While working with his football men Phelan has not neglected alumni and citizens of the state generally. He has addressed chambers of commerce, alumni gatherings, Rotary and Kiwanis luncheons, mothers' and the like, displaying a varied knowledge extending far beyond sports—upon which subject he can be instructive and entertaining—embracing many subjects of interest to the more serious kind of college grads, such as art, engineering, ethics and in fact any old topic.

Recently Phelan was asked to speak before a church gathering and after an inspiring talk he stood answering questions of parents as fast as they came—what a mother should do with a son whose character she described, the influence of athletics upon behavior and kindred subjects in which parents are vitally interested. Phelan was never at loss for a sympathetic, sincere and helpful reply.

In recent years these contact trips by football men had been suspended, but now Phelan, in a remarkably short time, has won esteem that students, faculty, alumni, business folk and in fact, everyone the state are united in the common cause of athletic success at the university. Preparatory school boys have been made conscious that Washington is as strong for football as for rowing and the result is certain to be improved husky teams and more rigid competition for the big three California members of the Pacific coast conference.

MONEY FLOWS BACK TO EUROPE AGAIN AS RATES DECREASE

Capital Seeks Own Level—Stock Crash Changed Direction or Run

BY PRESTON S. KRECKER
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press

Wall Street, New York — (CPA) — Money, like water, seeks its level. In 1928 and 1929 the tide was flowing from Europe to America. England was sending us her pounds sterling, France and Switzerland their francs, Holland her guilders and others in less quantities their currencies. The magnet which drew Europe's savings to our shores was high interest rates paid here at that time on short term loans of every description.

Altogether the almost incredible sum of more than three billion dollars in value of foreign capital found investment in call loans, bank bills, U. S. treasury certificates and other short term loans last year or was left here on deposit for foreign account. Those figures do not include foreign long term investments here nor gold earmarked by the federal reserve bank for European account to the amount of $150,000,000.

After the stock market inflation bubble was pricked last autumn, the tide turned and foreign capital began to flow out. The outward movement recently has accelerated its speed, since our money rates have dropped to lowest levels in six years. Foreign bankers find it hard and unprofitable to employ their funds in short term American loans at current interest rates and are taking much of it back home.

RATES ABROAD SAME

It is true that money rates abroad are about on a level with the interest paid here with the result that so far as rates on short term loans are concerned there is little to choose between our market and those of Europe. On the other hand, there is a difference in favor of European markets due to the fact that foreign bankers are required to pay a double income tax on all profits made in American markets, on tax going to Uncle Sam and the other to their home governments. Investments at home bear the burden of but one tax.

Our congress last year amended the law to exempt from the federal income tax all profits on investments here by foreign central banks but did not exempt the great commercial banks of Europe from that tax.

While Europe is withdrawing her short term funds from the United States, the reverse is true of permanent investments in bonds and stocks. Such investments are increasing and are believed to be larger today than they were when the stock market crashed last autumn.

One of the largest institutions handling foreign investments reports that its portfolio of investments made for European account has been growing steadily ever since the first of the year and today is at the maximum.

Europeans are the shrewdest investors in the world, whether at home or abroad. American bankers handling private investment accounts for foreign clients find that the latter are keener judges of values than

Turn this package over and read the back

THE WORDS on the back of the package still mean what they say. No "extras," which do not contribute to the quality of the smoke, are included in the price of Camels. Just the utmost smoke-enjoyment that modern science can put into a cigarette.

That statement was on the first package of Camels manufactured and has been on every one of the billions of Camel packages sold from that day to this. When it was first written, other cigarette manufacturers were giving away flags, pictures of actresses, pictures of ball players—almost anything that would make the smoker think he was getting something extra for his money. The makers of Camels believed the smoker wanted a cigarette sold strictly on its merits, with all of its cost put into quality—a cigarette made of such excellent tobaccos—so perfectly blended—so mellow—so fragrant—that it would win its own way.

The vast popularity of Camels is a tribute to that four-square policy.

ANOTHER PLAN TO MAKE IT RAIN

London — Numerous plans have been tried all over the world in the past to make rain fall during droughts and times of need. The attempts are still being made and the latest plan is that of A. V. Blount, who is assisted by Professor Tesson, of the University of Leiden.

The plan is to carry pulverized ice up an airplane, fly over the clouds and drop the ice into the clouds. It is hoped that by doing

RIPON GLEE CLUB PRESENTS CONCERT

College Organization Appears at Congregational Church

New London—Directed by Harold Chamberlain, the 28 members of the Ripon College Glee club presented an excellently balanced program of choruses, solos and mixed instrumental numbers at the Congregational church last night. The concert was sponsored by the Ladies Aid society of the church.

Local interest centered about the performance of Orville Zerrner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Zerrner of this city, who appeared in duet and solo numbers, as well as in choruses. The club has visited New London several times in the past, but the program this time surpassed those it has believed.

The Ladies Aid served supper to the young men at the church dining rooms before the concert and townspeople entertained the club members in their homes overnight. Their next and last concert will be given tonight in Oshkosh.

GIRL DEBATORS ARGUE DISARMAMENT TOPIC

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—A large crowd of students and townspeople, meeting at the high school assembly room Tuesday, heard women debaters representing Carleton and Lawrence college argue the question, Resolved that Nations should adopt a policy of Complete Disarmament except for police purposes. The negative side was supported by Miss Perschbacher, Miss Fraser and Miss Snyder of Lawrence, while the affirmative was upheld by Miss Shawwood, Miss Wade and Miss Varkov of Carleton.

Musical numbers were given by a saxophone quartet composed of Miss Lorraine Wendelbeck, Watson Reuter, Roger Sloan and Robert Farrell, and Prof. Goranson sang Kreisler's "Old Refrain." The debating guests teams were introduced by Mrs. Ellis N. Caley of this city. The debate was a non-decision affair.

MERCHANTS HEAR TALK ON CITY FINANCES

New London—In an address before merchants last evening at the city hall, J. J. Burns, mayoralty candidate, discussed city expenditures over the past two years.

His talk was given at the regular meeting of the New London Home better condition and a lower tax that if the city's finances were in Merchants association. He asserted that in view of the next few years, more outside industries would furnish more steady employments than the factories turning out wood products, and cited Clintonville's several industries.

YOUTHS WANTED FOR ASSAULT MISSING

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—With warrants for their arrests awaiting their return no trace has been found of Orville and William Crowell, who are charged with having attacked Alvin Trambauer, manager of the Kozy Corner restaurant, Sunday night. William Crowell was released on patrol from Birmingham, Ala., following trial involving shooting of a motorman last summer.

LIBRARY BOARD MAY DISCUSS NEW MUSEUM

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—The regular meeting of the New London library board will be held Thursday evening at library hall. While it is possible that the museum building project may come up, it is understood that board members believe another year must elapse before the building may be begun.

MAYORALTY CANDIDATES TO CONTINUE ADDRESSES

New London—Interest in the spring election will center this week and in several talks by candidates. Speeches are being scheduled at various halls in the city, the first to be given at the opera house at 4:30 Saturday afternoon. At this time J. J. Burns, candidate for mayor, will address townspeople. On Sunday afternoon Mayor E. W. Wendlandt, who is seeking reelection will speak, and Mr. Burns will talk at 7:30 Monday evening at Werner's hall.

SCHOOL SINKING FUND IS $174,201

Figure Will Be Increased by $37,348 Before Year Is Up

New London—An account of the high school building sinking fund showing the financial state up to and including Feb. 12, 1930, has been prepared by E. C. Jost, secretary of the board of education.

Many citizens do not understand the manner in which the money is cared for, and are under the impression that the money is not actually available locally. The figures show the amount in the keeping of each of New London's three banks, and the account bears the names of the cashiers, A. L. Severance, First National bank; E. C. Jost, Farmers' State bank and Harold Dahlke, at that time with the bank of New London.

The amount of $174,201.56 is now available in addition to this sum of $37,348.01 will be paid by the city during 1930 so that the sum available later in the year will be $211,549.57.

The report follows:

STUDENT PAINTINGS ON EXHIBIT AT LIBRARY

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—Five paintings, the work of New London student artists, now are on display at the public library. At the end of the week they will be judged. The exhibit is sponsored by the Women's Study club and judges include Mrs. Vera Cornelius, Miss Beatrice Polley and Mrs. Pat J. Murphy. The winner of the best picture will be awarded a prize by the New London Civic Improvement league of this city, and will be sent to the state contest. This interest in art is a part of the movement created by the Henry Farnsworth Mead endowment. The pictures exhibited are unsigned.

The library has been closed a part of the past week to allow repair work on the cork floor covering. During the same interval the children's book department was rearranged, low cabinets being placed beneath the west windows. This will allow better daytime reading for small people. The entire juvenile department has been arranged, books being displayed in a new order.

LIONS PLAN ANOTHER BETTER HOMES CONTEST

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—The Lions club again will sponsor the Better Homes and Gardens contest this year. This initial contest last summer awakened new interest in home garden planning, and Lions believe that sufficient interest may result in a more beautiful city. Theodore Kneustein, a new member of the club, was appointed chairman of the committee. He in turn has appointed others to work with him in planning the project. The contest will begin as soon as spring has really arrived.

Because of numerous social events already planned during the spring it has been decided to postpone the contest, which was to have been given by the club soon after the close of Lent. Mr. Kneustein and Ben Andrews were received into the club as new members at the Tuesday luncheon.

ORDER NEW STAMPS FOR POSTOFFICE; NUMBER IS LIMITED

Issue Is in Commemoration of Two Historic United States Dates

Kaukauna—An order for 10,000 new 2-cent postage stamps has been placed for the Kaukauna postoffice, according to Adolph R. Mill, postmaster. The new stamps are to be issued on April 8 and 10 and will be received here after those dates. The stamps are being issued by the postoffice department in commemoration of two events. The order includes 5,000 stamps of each.

Those to be issued April 8 and 10 will be Massachusetts Bay Colony stamps, which will first be put on sale at Boston and Salem, Mass. The others will commemorate the two hundredth anniversary of the founding of the province of Carolina and the establishment of the original settlement near the site of the present city of Charleston, S. C. The stamps bear pictures of the events.

Only a limited number of the stamps are being issued which makes it possible for postoffices to receive only a limited amount, according to Postmaster Mill. The Kaukauna postoffice is receiving the maximum number of each. Issuing of the new stamps increases the activities of the stamp collectors and many letters are being received at the postoffice asking for the first cancelled stamps. The letters requesting various stamps are sent from points all over the United States, it was brought out by the postmaster.

RADIO TURNOVER REACHED NEW MARK AGAIN LAST YEAR

But Estimates of Industry and Commerce Department Differ

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright, 1930 by Cons. Press
Washington—Final figures on radio's turnover for 1929 show beyond doubt that the industry kept its annual pace of smashing the preceding year's record. But there is great disparity between the estimates arrived at by the industry and by the commerce department.

The industry itself places the turnover for the last calendar year at $84,000,000 or 23 per cent above the 1928 figure. The department's best estimate on the basis of reports received from about one-fourth of the retailers is some $55,000,000.

According to the industry's statistics, gathered from the various manufacturers and retailers and computed by a trade publication, more than 4,000,000 receiving sets were sold. The commerce department's statistics makes this something like 3,000,000 sets.

Both parties officials are free to admit that their estimates are little short of guesswork, since there is no fixed method of gathering official statistics for the radio industry as in other industries. Questionnaires are sent out quarterly to radio retailers. About 25 per cent of the 45,000 dealers answer them.

On the basis of the reports for 1929, the department calculates that the average value, per dealer of radio equipment sales was $13,000 as against $10,800 for dealers who reported in 1928. The average sales of sets for these retailers was $6 as against $6 for 1928 and 47 for 1927.

Despite a disastrous condition in the industry toward the end of the year, 1929 proved to be the biggest year in radio's history. The stock market crash coupled with overproduction in the industry caused an era of price-cutting and distress-merchandise dumping. Latest reports are that virtually all the distress merchandise has been cleared off, and that the industry is regaining its economic equilibrium. In all its aspects, it is concluded that the radio turnover last year approached the selected billion dollar class. This includes purchases of transmitting equipment, both by broadcasting stations and for communications and experiments in television and the like.

For the current year the industry is hopeful that the billion dollar figure will be attained in the broadcast receiving set, tube and accessory field alone. Although the price range of receiving sets is somewhat lower and there is continued evidence of a downward trend, heavier sales are forecast. The 1930 market should show sales of 4,000,000 receiving sets and $0,000,000 tubes, according to observers in the industry.

It is estimated that of the 29,000,000 homes in the United States, only some 8,000,000 have modern receiving sets. Another 4,000,000 have obsolete sets which must be replaced.

Of Interest To Farmers

Require Care To Spread Fertilizer On Fields

BY W. F. WINSEY
Sturgeon Bay—As this is the time of the year when farmers are considering the application of lime and commercial fertilizer to their fields, County Agent B. F. Rusey is proposing some timely methods of spreading them. Lime and fertilizer may be spread by hand, by use of the machinery on hand or by the purchase of special machinery. By exercising the usual care in farm activities good work may be done by each of the methods mentioned by Mr. Rusey.

A little experimenting will make it possible to spread quite evenly the usual application of phosphate ranging from 100 to 200 pounds per acre, says the county agent. About a handful for every step with the right foot over a swath of ten feet will spread 200 pounds of phosphate per acre.

To scatter phosphate with a manure spreader, set the spreader to the minimum number of manure loads per acre which is usually about four. Put at least ten inches of well rotted manure in the spreader and level it off. Spread the desired amount of commercial fertilizer to cover four or five acres evenly on top of the manure. Check up on the acre covered by the first load if accuracy is desired. The number of pounds of fertilizer to be put on each load of manure can then be determined by dividing the number of pounds of fertilizer per acre by the number of loads per acre covered by the spreader. This method is satisfactory in the spreading of both lime and phosphate. Some farmers make a practice of spreading a few shovels of lime over the top of every load of manure and others of spreading lime over the floors of the cow stables.

The use of a grain drill with a fertilizer attachment forms the best method of applying commercial fertilizer in any quantity, says Mr. Rusey. The use of the grain drill attachment is the only way of spreading evenly small and large applications of phosphate. When farmers are purchasing a new grain drill, Mr. Rusey advises that they select a drill provided with a fertilizer attachment. Phosphate applications are especially recommended for small grain. The fertilizer attachment makes it possible to seed small grain and distribute phosphate in the same operation with the grain drill. The two wheeled two horse broadcast sowers usually eight feet wide.

HOROWITZ CALLED BIG SENSATION OF THIS GENERATION

Noted Pianist Will Appear in Memorial Chapel April 5

Vladimir Horowitz, the 25 year-old pianist who will appear in concert at the Memorial Chapel as the final number of the Community Artist Series, Saturday evening, April 5, is advertised as "The most amazingly legitimate sensation of the generation."

If the press notices given him by eminent critics in every large city in America are indicative of the amazement he arouses, he is surely the pianist marvel of the age. Success has followed upon his heels after every concert he has given during the two and a half seasons of his American concert experience.

This sensational success of the young artist is a result of actual achievement, not temperament, and outside aids to fame. His mastery of his instrument is a mastery of technique and artistic effect, not mere musical trickery. His tremendous technical power has been the amazement of critics, and the means of striking his audiences speechless with wonder.

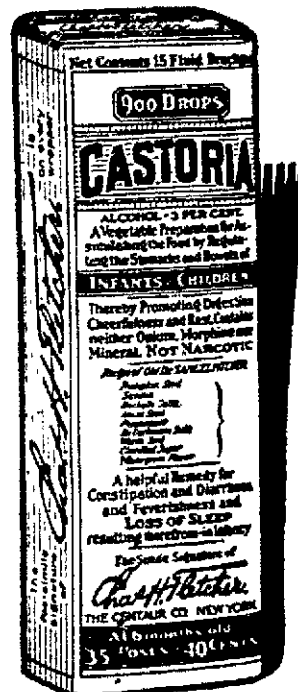

In all of his playing, he exhibits an intelligence of the intention of the composer, with interpretive instinct so discriminating as to put across to his hearers the meaning of his music with feeling which could be the result of only a strong musical insight. No less overwhelming.

ing is his style and spirit. He possesses a creative ability, that of evoking a mood. He has brought audiences everywhere to a pitch of excitement and enthusiasm as to make them refuse to leave the concert hall after hearing him. This is a superb genius.

When Babies CRY

Babies will cry, often for no apparent reason. You may not know what's wrong, but you can always give Castoria. This soon has your little one comforted; if not, you should call a doctor. Don't experiment with medicines intended for the stronger systems of adults! Most of those little upsets are soon soothed away by a little of this pleasant-tasting, gentle-acting children's remedy that children like.

It may be the stomach, or may be the little bowels. Or in the case of older children, a sluggish, constipated condition. Castoria is still the thing to give. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment, and could by no possibility do the youngest child the slightest harm. So it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue; won't play, can't sleep, is fretful or out of sorts. Get the genuine; it always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package.

Why we waited 6 months to announce this new oil to the public...

LAST October, after a year of research, a new type of motor oil was perfected. It was announced to the public only four weeks ago.

The reason for this delay is easily explained.

We believed that this new oil is one of the most important advances in lubrication yet made. We believed, among other things, that it would greatly increase the average life of the automobile engine. Naturally we wanted to give it the most thorough tests possible. These tests have taken six months to complete. More than a hundred different cars were used. One car was driven 9,000 miles—more than three times across the continent!

We can now definitely make the following statements:

1. New Iso-Vis means less wear on every moving part of the automobile engine.
2. It will not "thin out" in the crankcase.
3. It gives effective lubrication over a wider range of temperatures—both high and low.
4. It means a radical reduction of carbon deposits—far less than in most premium-priced oils.

With New Iso-Vis you get a type of lubrication that has not been possible before, regardless of the kind of oil you have used.

This new, improved oil is now on sale at all Standard Oil dealers and service stations. Drain, flush and fill up your crankcase today.

HUNDREDS of cars, of practically every make and model, were used in road tests under the toughest conditions possible, to prove the superior value of New Iso-Vis as a motor lubricant. These rigid tests were successful even beyond our expectations. The 4 points at the right give the details.

TWO RURAL SCHOOLS TIED FOR HONORS IN HEALTH CONTEST

Sunnyside, Center, and High Ridge, Greenville, Have 188 Points Each

Two rural schools, Sunnyside, town of Center, and High Ridge, town of Greenville, were tied for first place with 188 points each in the county health contest being conducted by Miss Marie Klein, county nurse. Miss Katherine Long teaches the Sunnyside school and Miss Marie Tremmel teaches the High Ridge school.

Maple Leaf rural school, town of Liberty, placed third with 186 points. Miss Ruth Abel is the teacher of this school.

This contest was started last November by Miss Klein in an effort to get students and teachers interested in a health program. Schools are scored according to the number of pupils who are absent and tardy, the number who take regular baths, brush their teeth, sleep with the windows open, and on other health habits. Each month the schools are graded according to their records. All schools which complete the contest for the year are to receive a prize with the winners of first, second and third places receiving special awards.

Following is a list of all the schools which took part in February, with the names of the teachers and the points scored by each:

Cheap Fertilizer Chief Aim Of New Muscle Shoals Plan

BY FRANK I. WELLER

Washington —(AP)—Promised two amendments by Senator Black of Alabama, providing for commercial manufacture of fertilizer, the reintroduced Norris resolution for government operation of Muscle Shoals is expected to get early consideration from the senate.

Senator Black says it has been agreed by Senator Watson, republican floor leader, that Muscle Shoals legislation be the first on the calendar after disposition of the tariff bill.

Heretofore production of hydroelectric power has been given chief consideration in Muscle Shoals legislation, with debate centering around the question of public or private operation. Senator Black's amendments to the bill by Senator Norris of Nebraska, calling for completion of dam No. 3 and the commercial manufacture of fertilizer at nitrate plants No. 1 and No. 2, reserve the order.

He proposes that the plants be leased at $1 a year to private interests on the stipulation that they buy operating power from the government and sell fertilizer to farmers at a price guaranteed not to return the manufacturer a profit in excess of 8 per cent.

Ample provision is made for requisition of all facilities in event of war and for their use in the aid of flood control and navigation.

MORE NEW BOOKS ON LIBRARY SHELVES

"Byron" by Maurois Is Included in List of Latest Volumes

"Byron" by Andre Maurois, the author of "Disraeli" and "Ariel," is one of the new books recently received at the Appleton public library. Maurois tells the story of Byron's dazzling career with wit and penetration, the insight and sympathy that make him a master of modern biography. He portrays the poet's love affairs that scandalized all Europe, tells how he travelled through the continent surrounded by a rethuse of friends, servants and animals; of his swim across the Hellespont; of his poetry that sold by the tens of thousands of copies; and how he led a secret society in Italy and died fighting for the liberty of Greece. The succession of romantic scenes, the procession of lovely mistresses, the group of famous friends—Shelley, Hobhouse, Tom Moore—Maurois paints them all in brilliant colors and witty phrases.

"In the Land of the Lion" by Cherry Kearton is another new addition at the library. Here one finds the cruelty, humor, pathos and endless drama of the wild, the haunting, thrilling magic of Central Africa. Graphic description, exciting adventures and strange lore fill the pages of this book by a man who is at once a great naturalist and a born writer.

A third new book is "In Search of Scotland" by H. V. Morton, author

A. A. U. W. URGES CHANGE IN NATIONALITY LAW

Washington —(AP)—Through its president, Dr. Mary E. Woolley, the American Association of University Women has written President Hoover urging that women have the same right as men to change or maintain their nationality.

Nationality is to be discussed at the conference for codification of international law which meets at

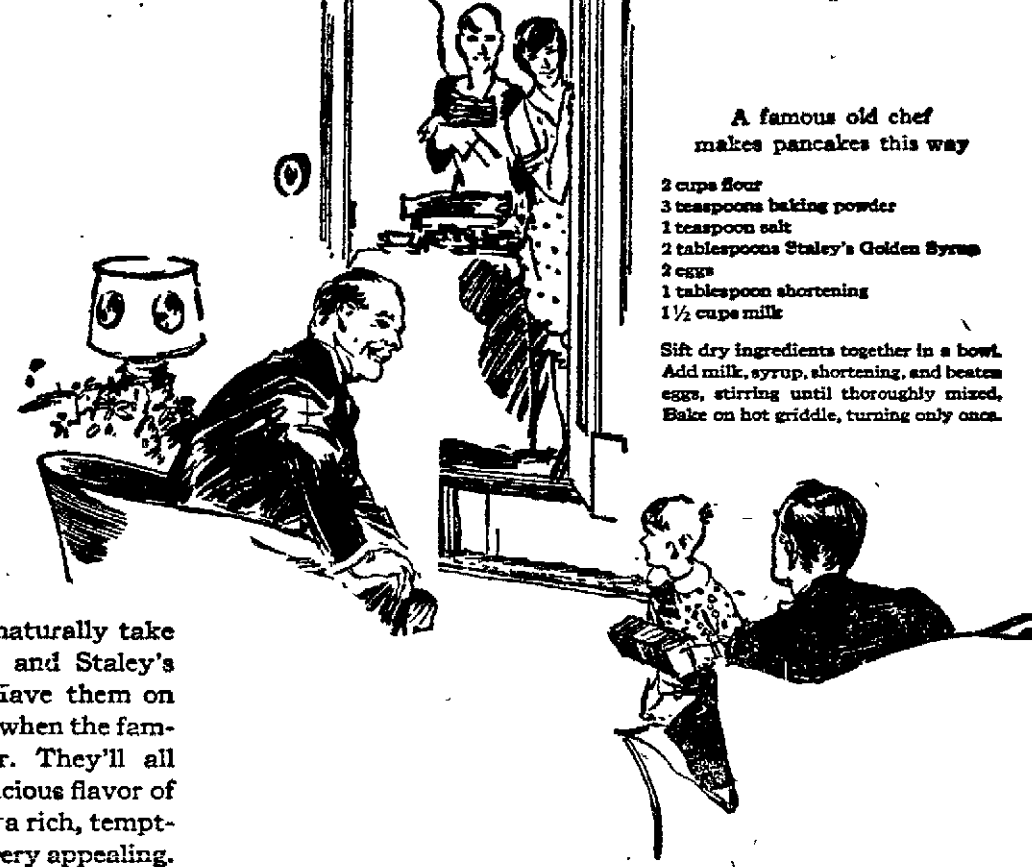

The Hague March 13. The University women request that the United States delegates be instructed to vote for a measure that would give women the same rights as men on questions of nationality.

They also urge that women experienced in international law be included in the government delegation.

Next Sunday evening have cakes with this delicious syrup

A famous old chef makes pancakes this way

- 2 cups flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons Staley's Golden Syrup
- 2 eggs
- 1 tablespoon shortening
- 1 1/2 cups milk

Sift dry ingredients together in a bowl. Add milk, syrup, shortening, and beat eggs, stirring until thoroughly mixed. Bake on hot griddle, turning only once.

FOLKS just naturally take to pancakes and Staley's Golden Syrup. Have them on Sunday evenings when the family gets together. They'll all delight in the delicious flavor of this syrup. It has a rich, tempting taste that is very appealing. And it costs so little.

Give the children lots of Staley's Golden Syrup. It is healthy, energy-building food, containing a large amount of dextrose and maltose. Doctors even prescribe it in infant feeding.

This syrup can be used for so many purposes. Try it as a spread on bread or with hot biscuits. It makes delightful cakes, cookies and gingerbread. Write for free Recipe and Menu Book. Increase in Price of Sugar Beets

We have confidence that Congress will pass the pending Tariff Bill carrying an increase in duty on Cuban Raw Sugar.

Planting time is approaching and in order to relieve all doubt we have decided to now announce that we will guarantee a bonus of 50c per ton above our regular contract price for all sugar beets delivered to us from 1930 crop.

Present prices for grain, hay, live stock, milk, butter, cheese, and eggs, are low and may go lower.

Sugar beets with a high price guaranteed become at once the crop Wisconsin farmers can turn to for assured cash results to meet the payment of taxes, interest, or other urgent obligations that will confront them next fall.

Already we have a large increase in acreage contracted over last year. We feel certain we will get all we need for the full capacity of our factories. As soon as we have enough we will quit contracting.

SLIGHT CHANGE IN UNEMPLOYMENT IS NOTICED IN STATE

Reports from 10 Leading Wisconsin Cities Listed by Commission

Madison —(4P)— Slight change in the unemployment status has been noted in the last month, the state industrial commission announced today after a survey reported by superintendents of Wisconsin public employment offices.

Ten leading Wisconsin cities are listed in the study, and comments on the employment situation are as follows:

Ashland—Logging camps are beginning to release their workers and the surplus of transient labor is increasing. Unemployment among common labor and building tradesmen continues about the same as last month.

Green Bay—There is considerable unemployment among all classes of building tradesmen and among various classes of factory labor and unskilled labor. Less than full time and capacity operation schedules prevail in most factories. Some paper mills run on a five-day week basis.

La Crosse—Approximately 1500 workers are affected by part-time employment schedules. Two local factories are closed; two factories are operating full time; two factories work five days a week on an 8-hour day with a full crew; six factories work with about 60 per cent of full crews on a 5-day week basis, and 8 hours a day; four factories have reduced employment to about 33 per cent of full crews and operate on a 5-day week basis and 8 hours a day. Employment is curtailed most in metals and metal products industries. Unemployment among building tradesmen and common labor is extensive although some work is in progress. A $1,000,000 project will afford employment to about 150 workers later in the season.

Madison — Factory employment has recently shown a slight seasonal gain, but the improvement is not equal to the usual seasonal increase for this period of the year. Out door employment is still very slack. There are a number of building projects which will give relief about April 1. The demand for farm help is showing some improvement although the seasonal demand for farm help is still about two weeks off.

Milwaukee: The local employment situation has bettered itself but very slightly since a month ago. In the automobile manufacture industry some employers have rehired a number of men, but the movement is very limited, and in certain lines of employment is still decreasing. There is a surplus of workers in all industries and it will be some time before local industries absorb their own experienced workers after industrial conditions improve. Employment in construction lines at this time is particularly slack and prospects for early recovery are not especially good. Many Milwaukee manufacturers are operating on a part-time basis in order to continue employment for the largest number of their regular employees.

Oshkosh: Some 4,000 employees in the woodworking industries of the Oshkosh district are employed on short day or short week working hours. While no manufacturing plants have closed down, the curtailed operations are due to a lack of orders.

Tacine: Employment is more than seasonably slack, with extensive unemployment in the building trades and other outdoor lines of work. A rubber works plant formerly employing 800 men is closed, and factories employing approximately 650 men are on part-time.

Sheboygan: There is a slight seasonal increase in employment opportunities, but unemployment is

Hunting River Has Many Good Sized Speckled Trout

BY R. A. CLAFLIN

Since my last two articles on early trout fishing were released I have received many inquiries from anglers about the state in reference to additional waters which my limited space did not allow me to enlarge upon. In replying to these inquiries I have not only given the benefit of my extensive, personal list, but also I have outlined the proper tackle to use, and particularly, the right flies, their names, the correct sizes, whether wet or dry and such other details which, it appears, will make for success. I am always glad to do this; and the letters of thanks in my possession indicate that my information has been successfully applied; many anglers now boast of proper equipment which otherwise they might not have learned of.

In writing these informative articles over a period of several years, I have been guided by a desire not only to help the decent anglers to find more sport, but to try and induce them to conduct fairly their part in the great, free recreation, and to fish for the love of angling, rather than for quantity of catch. Education along these lines will do far more toward conservation than threats of punishment.

In this article I shall point out a stream, ideal for mid-summer trout-fishing, and whose waters contain as fine an average of good sized Speckled trout as any I know of. I fished consistently last summer and while it would be unethical for me to state the number of big ones my party landed, I will say it was entirely satisfactory.

I refer to the Hunting river, in Langlade-co. We hit the stream from the Antigo-Pelican Lake Highway, a few miles above Antigo. We fished down until we reached what is locally called the "flowage." Here the stream widens out into a hundred or more feet of very slow moving water. Through its center, however, a lively, narrow current flows; and along the edge of this the big trout lie in wait for the floating insects and other food.

To successfully fish this stream you simply must be properly equipped. Long casts must be made from either side—much longer than what are ordinarily considered good casts.

I use a double-tapered line and nine foot tapered, tri-colored leader. As for the proper flies, during late June and early July use the following patterns: Cahill, Brown Hackle, Royal Coachman, Wickham's Fancy, Red Ant, Ginger Quill,

21,818 WORKMEN'S CASES SETTLED IN STATE DURING '28

About 90 Per Cent Are Temporary Disability Injuries

Madison —(P)— During 1928 a total of 21,818 cases under the workmen's compensation law were settled, the Wisconsin Industrial Commission announced today in a presentation of statistics.

Of the compensation cases settled, 229 were fatal, for which an average total benefit cost per case was $5,582.

There were but three total disability cases in those settled during 1928, the commission said. There were 835 permanent partial injuries (scheduled) and 1,112 permanent partial injuries (relative) and 19,669 temporary disability injuries.

Some facts brought out by the statistics compiled by the commission are:

"During 1928 there were 26 death cases in 95 compensation cases caused by electrical currents. Thirteen out of the 26 involved young men 18 to 30 years of age.

"About 80 per cent of all cases settled under the Workmen's Compensation act are temporary disability injuries.

"Temporary disability injury cases over the past 10 years have averaged 24.8 days actual time loss per case in 225,453 cases.

"In 45 per cent of all temporary injury cases the employee is disabled beyond the 21 calendar days after the date of the injury and receives indemnity for the waiting period, or first week of disability.

"Employees are disabled longer than four weeks in about 20 per cent of all compensable temporary disability cases. The longer term disability cases include large numbers of infected injuries and bone fracture cases.

"Comparative to all cases settled, the number of cases with more than four weeks disability was smaller during the three year period, 1925 to 1928, than during the three year period 1923 to 1924. The statistics indicate a slight decrease in the duration of disability in temporary injury cases.

"Construction industry caused the largest number of compensable injuries. There were 4,111 in this class with lumber and lumber products industry running second with 3,184. A comparison between the number of compensable injuries in farming and mining showed 413 for the first and 31 for the latter.

Figuring 300 working days in the year, 19,669 working day's time was lost by men in the compensable injury class.

Rank of state in compensation death benefit allowance of January 1, 1929 showed Arizona first with 1,147 and Wisconsin seventh with 765.

BIG GERMAN PLANE WILL HOP ATLANTIC WITHIN FEW MONTHS

Dornier Do-X to Make East-West Flight With 50 Passengers

BY SHERMAN B. ALTICK
(Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press)
New York (CPA)—The world's largest heavier-than-air craft—the Dornier DO-X, which carried 169 persons into the air over Lake Constance, Switzerland, on Oct. 21, and remained aloft an hour—was being groomed for a flight across the Atlantic from Germany to New York.

Present plans for the proposed flight of the giant seaplane fix the hop-off from Lake Constance, with a crew of 12 and 50 passengers, during late June or early July.

When the big German designed and built air liner takes the air on its first flight to sea, the pulsating, vital motive parts upon which every hope of success depends—the engines—will be of American design and construction.

Twelve 600-horsepower Curtiss Conqueror liquid-cooled engines have been crated and shipped from Buffalo, N. Y., plant of the Curtiss company to Friedrichshafen, where they will be installed in the huge craft before the start of the hop across the Atlantic.

The American engines will give the DO-X a total of 7,200 horsepower instead of the 5,000 horsepower of the present Siemens and Halske Jupiter radial motors. The American engines are the twelve-cylinder V-type used to power various military aircraft in use by the United States army air corps. They are mounted in tandems of six on top of the monoplane wing of the DO-X, and cooling of the six rearward motors has been a big problem of the Dornier engineers, according to experts who have made a study of the motive power for the larger types of aircraft.

ENGINES HEATED UP
Even with the great chord of the Dornier wing it was impossible for the engineers to keep the six pusher motors properly cooled; hence the shift to the liquid-cooled type of engine.

The huge air liner, which carried its 17-ton load of human cargo at a cruising speed of 115 miles an hour with the total of 6,000 horsepower is expected to pick up an additional five to ten miles an hour with the additional horsepower, and is expected to cross the Atlantic by way of the Azores in a total flying time of less than 30 hours.

The hull of the boat, which is built with three decks, carries the fuel, baggage and freight in the lower hold. The middle deck, which is 64 feet long, is reserved for passengers' parlors, entertainment rooms, dining room and sleeping compartments, while the upper deck contains the pilots and navigators' rooms.

Although the craft is designed to carry a hundred passengers and a crew of 12, the first crossing of the Atlantic will be made with a complement of about half that number. The additional load will be made up

CREW CLEARS WRONG RAILS AFTER STORM

Evansville, Ill. (AP)—In the frantic effort to clear its tracks of snow, the Evansville Street Car company hired most anybody.

Yesterday a new crew started out on Central-st with orders to clear the south-bound tracks. After they had picked, shoveled and scraped their way for 600 feet, it was found they had cleared the two inside rails, leaving both outside rails covered with snow and ice.

They had to do it all over again, but Central-st was finally cleared.

of fuel to keep the craft in the air during the longer leg of the flight from the Azores to New York. It is planned to make the journey non-stop from the Azores, but if head winds cause an over-consumption of fuel, the craft may put into Bermuda for refueling.

The General Motors Corporation has purchased the rights to build all types of craft designed by the Dornier works and at present is seeking a suitable site for a plant in which to turn out the giant air liners.

Upon completion of the trip here, it is the plan of the sponsors of the trip to have the Dornier boat hop from the Atlantic to the Great Lakes, and thence to the Pacific coast.

New Zealand contemplates a flying taxicab service.

RESERVE BOARD IS GUARDING AGAINST NEW STOCK FRENZY

Anticipated That Purchase of Government Securities Will Drop

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright, 1930E, by Cons. Press
Washington (CPA)—The Federal reserve board's purchases of government securities will be closely watched during the next few weeks. It is generally anticipated in banking circles here that the amount of government securities purchased will drop decidedly. It is pointed out that this means might be taken to prevent any sudden or wild rush of speculative frenzy in stocks. The open market securities committee met here Tuesday.

Normally, the purchase of government securities would release funds with which members banks could reduce their indebtedness to the reserve banks, for each $100 in government bonds bought releases credit of about $100. But the indebtedness of member banks is now so low as to make any reduction unnecessary. This leaves money available for business and industrial purposes, but if it eases credit for such purposes it also releases money for brokers' loans. Industrial and commercial concerns are not borrowing with any great abandon right now. They are holding expansion programs in abeyance in many sections.

The federal reserve board counts on the psychological effect to last fall's crash in stock prices to prevent another era of speculative mania, but at the same time take cognizance of the fact that it does not know to just what extent the "burnt child dreads the fire." Some members are known to fear that many traders are reaching out their blistered fingers again toward the red hot stove.

CHECK IS LOGICAL

It is logical, bankers here say, that the board should check its purchases of government securities. There is ample money, they say, for present legitimate business needs if the borrowers will borrow and the banks will lend it. The board must keep the demand for credit fairly stable because it is only then that the board can control credit. It cannot control it if demand is not adequate or if demand is so great that it draws funds from independent lenders who are anxious to put their surplus funds where they can get them promptly, and where they will draw high interest; namely, in the call money market.

Investment demand, it is felt at the treasury, rapidly attaining a position of normalcy. This is shown by the petition just filed by the Erie railroad for authority to sell $50,000,000 in refunding and improvement 5 per cent bonds. The road previously had asked and had been granted permission to issue these bonds and hold them in its treasury until the bond market stabilized. Now it announces it can sell the bonds at not less than 93 1/2 per cent of the principal. The issue has been taken by one of the big banking houses.

With this strength being shown in the bond market, the board is allowing no steps to remain untaken to prevent a dangerous and sudden upsurge of activity in the stock market. But it cannot be doubted that if funds are released for business and industrial purposes, some of the flow is bound to enter the channels of speculation.

EAT MORE BUTTER

Ottawa—Canadians eat more butter than any other people in the world, according to a recent government survey. The per capita consumption of butter amounts to nearly 30 pounds a year. The per capita consumption of milk in Canada is about 407 pounds a year; that of cheese 3.54 pounds, and that of ice cream 29.31 pounds.

Mr. Merchant: Get Your Share of the Advertising Dollar

THROUGH YOUR OWN NEWSPAPER
YOUR MANUFACTURERS CAN CREATE A
DEMAND FOR THE GOODS YOU SELL

THE advertising dollar, when part of it is spent to create a demand in your community for the products you offer, can create greater sales and quicker turnover for you. You fully realize that the well-advertised products of merit go to make up the fastest selling lines in your store. You should realize as fully that "well-advertised" can only be interpreted to mean regular representation in your own daily newspaper.

You can insist on your share of the advertising dollar before you take on or continue to display a particular line of goods. You can point out to the representatives of your manufacturers that advertising which reaches only a small part of your clientele will not create a sufficient demand. The line of goods which is backed in the columns of your own newspaper through manufacturer's advertising will be the line most familiar to your customers — the line which they will purchase from you.

With a sufficient share of the advertising dollar backing your products in your own city and informing your customers what is new in merchandise, you can reasonably expect to increase your sales. You can tie in with your own advertising and your store displays. You can offer these lines to customers and expect a favorable reaction. You can expect customers to ASK for these lines.

OBVIOUSLY, you need your share of the manufacturer's advertising dollar — need it placed in the same newspaper which you use. You can get it by facing the facts openly when you are considering a particular brand of goods, and by insisting on that share every time an advertising campaign is shown you.

Four color magazine spreads and metropolitan rotogravure advertising may impress themselves upon a small part of your clientele, but are they reaching the vast majority of readers in your city?

When you insist that a part of the manufacturer's advertising dollar goes into your own newspaper to tell the story of your goods to your own trading area, you are only securing the backing which is due you as a valuable retail outlet. You are not expected to create the complete demand for the products you handle. Your part is one of supplying those products as advertised in your own newspaper and of standing behind them with the reputation of your store.

Get your share of the national advertising dollar, Mr. Merchant, and get your share of the increased sales!

HERE'S THE WAY!

When a particular brand of goods is under consideration, ask yourself: "Is the manufacturer advertising regularly in my newspaper?" Insist that he does, for herein lies sales success. Ask your newspaper about it today.

END HAWARD FORSAKES HER NATIVE CANADA FOR A CAREER AS A WRITER IN NEW YORK CITY. SEEKING INSPIRATION FOR A BOOK ENID, WITH A SELF-ASSURANCE BORN OF HER RUGGED ENVIRONMENT, BECOMES A HABITUE OF THE PICTURESCAPE PLACES OF THE EAST SIDE, HOME OF POVERTY AND HAVEN OF THE LAWLESS. A CHANCE MEETING WITH PHIL MARTIN, A REPORTER FOR THE HERALD STAR LEADS TO SEVERAL DELIGHTFUL MIDNIGHT SUPPERS IN JOE CAPRILLO'S GONDOLA RESTAURANT. MARTIN TELLS ENID OF HIS QUEST FOR IDENTIFICATION AND CAPTURE OF THE "BIG SHOT" RECOGNIZED BY POLICE AS THE LEADER OF ALL NEW YORK GANGDOM. SHIVE FRANK, A GANGSTER WHOM MARTIN REFINED, REPAYS WITH INFORMATION CONCERNING THE BIG SHOT WHO HE SUSPECTS WAS KNOWN AS HAL VARNER AND PROMISES MARTIN A PICTURE OF THE MAN.

CHAPTER 2 SHADOWED! ENID HOWARD LEANED FORWARD tensely as her companion paused with a far off look in his gray eyes. "Go on," she urged. "I'm going as soon as I've tided the rest of your story. Then you'll be able to eat in peace." "On that basis, I'd like to drag it out," he told her impulsively. "But I'm afraid there isn't much more to tell. Shive and I, separately and together, tried to locate Varnery--but failed. Shive couldn't find the photograph, and we had little to go on. "And then, just as I was beginning to think we were up against a stone wall Shive telephoned me to-day that he'd not only found the photograph but had track of Varnery himself. I'm to meet Shive here later tonight." He paused as he reached the end of his tale. "That's all there is to it--now. What do you think of it?" She was silent for a moment, her eyes on the greasy little Joe Caprillo at the desk from which he watched the patrons of his restaurant. "I think," she said at last, "that eventually you will get the Big Shot, and that your paper will score its scoop, thanks to you; but I cannot help feeling that however much the Big Shot is 'wanted,' I wish it were after. He is despicable beyond words. And I wish, too," she hesitated slightly--"that your success might come through some other medium. Do you mind me saying that?" "No," he said gravely. "As a matter of fact, I agree with you, though I think the end amply justifies the means in this case. It isn't nice. But there is no other way."

"I suppose not," she admitted reluctantly. "Anyway I want to thank you for telling me the story," she smiled in a quick, friendly way--"trusting me with it. And now I must go! It's an unconscionable hour!" She thrust out her wrist watch for him to see. "Half-past twelve."

Martin was gazing at her intently. Hesitantly, he spoke. "It's none of my business, of course, and I haven't the slightest right to say it, except that--well, I just felt I ought to as a friend--if you will let me call myself that. I know a lot more about conditions around here in this locality than you do. You're too dashed pretty and attractive to be unaccompanied to joints like this. It's risky and dangerous."

He was too obviously sincere to be misunderstood. Even that determined jaw looked a little more determined now in his earnestness. She answered him in like measure. "I have never been alone in this city, and I think that a girl who minds her own business has very little to fear. Besides I feel quite sure I can take care of myself. I've been more or less brought up that way, you see. And I have a pistol for emergencies!" "Good heavens!" he exclaimed, and his eyes strayed to her little black handbag. "You don't mean to say that you've got one here?" "Perhaps," she smiled. "Well in spite of all that, I think this sort of thing is dangerous; and, above all, I do not think it is safe for you to walk from here alone and at night to the neighborhood where you live."

Enid stiffened suddenly in her chair. "How do you know where I live?" she demanded sharply. "I followed you," he confessed calmly. "Only," her face flushed with anger. "Somehow I did not think that you would do that!" "I have followed you every night, either by myself or with Shive Frank," he searched her face. "Surely you understand. Surely you know why. It couldn't possibly have been to pry upon you--could it?" She felt the color flood her face. She knew she had been "basty" in her judgment. She owed him an apology. He had been genuinely concerned about her. "I am sorry I said that," she said frankly. "I am quite sure you were prompted only by kindness; but you must never do such a thing again, for I cannot agree with you that there is even the slightest cause for alarm."

"Well," her companion said as she rose to go. "There is no alternative. But if you won't let me go with you, you will be careful, won't you?" he asked earnestly. "I am always careful," she said with a mischievous smile, as she held out her hand. "Good-night."

He echoed her words but the gray eyes that followed her tiny and dainty figure through the door were clouded with a troubled and anxious look.

As Enid Howard walked towards home, she was singing. Not aloud, of course. A girl couldn't sing at that hour of night on Third Avenue without inviting attention. The song was really in the lightness of her steps. In the noise of her head and the tinge of heightened color in her cheeks. She told herself she was unaccountably happy. She knew it was because of Phil Martin; she was sure he was what he said he was.

She turned off the avenue onto a side street and headed towards the East river. Then the song went out of her heart to be supplanted by a flurry of alarm. Behind her she heard the sound of a man's footsteps. She quickened her steps, the man quickened his. She was being followed.

THE BIG SHOT

by FRANK L. PACKARD

SYNOPSIS: Alone in the world, Enid Howard forsores her native Canada for a career as a writer in New York City. Seeking inspiration for a book Enid, with a self-assurance born of her rugged environment, becomes a habitue of the picturesque places of the East Side, home of poverty and haven of the lawless. A chance meeting with Phil Martin, a reporter for the Herald Star leads to several delightful midnight suppers in Joe Caprillo's Gondola restaurant. Martin tells Enid of his quest for identification and capture of the "Big Shot" recognized by police as the leader of all New York gangdom. Shive Frank, a gangster whom Martin refined, repays with information concerning the Big Shot who he suspects was known as Hal Varnery and promises Martin a picture of the man.

CHAPTER 2 SHADOWED! ENID HOWARD LEANED FORWARD tensely as her companion paused with a far off look in his gray eyes. "Go on," she urged. "I'm going as soon as I've tided the rest of your story. Then you'll be able to eat in peace." "On that basis, I'd like to drag it out," he told her impulsively. "But I'm afraid there isn't much more to tell. Shive and I, separately and together, tried to locate Varnery--but failed. Shive couldn't find the photograph, and we had little to go on. "And then, just as I was beginning to think we were up against a stone wall Shive telephoned me to-day that he'd not only found the photograph but had track of Varnery himself. I'm to meet Shive here later tonight." He paused as he reached the end of his tale. "That's all there is to it--now. What do you think of it?" She was silent for a moment, her eyes on the greasy little Joe Caprillo at the desk from which he watched the patrons of his restaurant. "I think," she said at last, "that eventually you will get the Big Shot, and that your paper will score its scoop, thanks to you; but I cannot help feeling that however much the Big Shot is 'wanted,' I wish it were after. He is despicable beyond words. And I wish, too," she hesitated slightly--"that your success might come through some other medium. Do you mind me saying that?" "No," he said gravely. "As a matter of fact, I agree with you, though I think the end amply justifies the means in this case. It isn't nice. But there is no other way."

"I suppose not," she admitted reluctantly. "Anyway I want to thank you for telling me the story," she smiled in a quick, friendly way--"trusting me with it. And now I must go! It's an unconscionable hour!" She thrust out her wrist watch for him to see. "Half-past twelve."

CHECKS FOR SITE OF NEW POSTOFFICE ARE RECEIVED HERE

Government Will Acquire Title as Soon as Tax Question Is Settled

Checks for the sale of the property at the corner of Superior and Washington-sts for a new post office site were to be delivered to the former owners Thursday by W. H. Zuehlke, acting postmaster, and deeds transferring the land to the United States government will be filed with A. G. Koch, register of deeds, as soon as the matter of taxes for last year is settled with the city.

The owners of the property contend the government should pay last year's taxes while the city holds that the property owners must pay the taxes because the property had not yet changed hands on Dec. 31.

Mr. Zuehlke received the checks Wednesday from Levi Bancroft, United States attorney at Milwaukee, who in turn had received the checks from the United States Treasury department. The checks total $84,000. Of this amount $14,000 is to be paid for the Downer property; $20,000 for the Steens property; and $50,000 for the Amend property.

When the deal is closed the government will own a piece of property which extends 156.17 feet on Superior-st and 240 feet on Washington-st. The new post office, will be erected there. It is expected building operations will begin this spring or summer.

MAGAZINE CARRIES STORY ON MUSIC PLAN

An article written by A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, on the supervised music program now in use in the Outagamie-co rural schools, appears in the March issue of the School Executive magazine, published at Lincoln, Neb. The article gives a detailed resume of the plan and tells how it was placed in operation in the county. The magazine also prints a picture of Mr. Meating and a picture of the 1,000 students which took part in the music festival in Appleton last May.

NURSE ASKS TEACHERS TO HELP HEALTH DRIVE

Miss Marie Klein, county nurse, in a circular issued this week to county rural school teachers, urges them to assist in a drive to stamp out contagious disease prevalent in many districts. Measles, mumps and scarlet fever have been causing considerable trouble during the last month, Miss Klein points out. Teachers should make immediate reports of sickness, the county nurse said, and all sick students should be sent home for an examination by a physician.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Rueckert and son Vernon spent the weekend at the home of Mrs. Walter Kroening, at Bonduel.

Another List Of Prize Winners To Be Announced In Friday's Post-Crescent

Watch for Friday's Appleton Post-Crescent, boys and girls. It will contain another list of prize winners in the On to Washington contest and you may be one of the lucky pupils to receive a half dollar award.

The contest editor was busy Thursday opening the scores of letters he has received again this week. Many new ideas have been submitted and another group of boys and girls will be given shiny half dollars to add to their commencement trip funds.

A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, who planned the trip to Washington, said Thursday he is pleased with the spirit shown by the rural school pupils in the contest conducted by the Post-Crescent. Mr. Meating said that the large number of letters received since the contest started, more than 500, indicated that the boys and girls are working hard to earn the $25 needed to pay their expenses on the trip.

"When I planned this trip I pointed out that one of the things I intended to stress was that every graduate should earn the $25 needed to take him on the trip," Mr. Meating said. "This contest reveals that my plan has been met more than half way by the boys and girls who are showing more than ordinary interest in the trip."

The contest is not a hard one. A letter or even an ordinary post card may carry your idea to the contest editor. If he thinks it is original and practical you will be awarded one of the weekly prizes. Every Friday a list of prize winners is printed and the half-dollars are mailed to the boys and girls a few days later.

There is no limit to the number of prizes any boy or girl may win. Every week the prize winners are named and the contest will run until next June. So let's get busy, boys and girls, and try to win one of those half dollars.

Send your suggestions to the On to Washington editor.

The Community Artist Series

Present Vladimir Horowitz Famous Pianist

— At — LAWRENCE CHAPEL Sat., April 5th

During his first season Horowitz made 26 appearances in 58 days. No sooner was his second tour announced, limited by his European engagements to Oct. 15, 1929, to Jan. 1, 1930, than it was completely booked. Since that time there has been the same feverish intensity of enthusiasm for Horowitz. It was with great difficulty that the management of the Community Artist series arranged his present booking.

NEW YORK STOCKS MAKE GAINS, REACT, AND THEN RECOVER

Ticker Falls 45 Minutes Behind Market With Heavy Volume of Trade

By STANLEY W. PRENSOIL
Associated Press Financial Editor
New York.—(P)—Prices on the New York exchange bounded upward with an impressive flourish at the opening of today's market, ran into a heavy volume of trading when the ticker fell far behind the market and then made irregular recovery when new leaders were brought forward in the early afternoon. So great was the volume of trading that the ticker was running about three quarters of an hour behind the market at the end of the third hour, with every indication that the day's sales would set another new high record for the year.

The mid-day selling movement received its chief impetus from a 10 percent rise in the call money rate from 3 to 4 percent. This was accompanied by the heavy calling of loans as bankers began their semi-weekly adjustment of balances at the federal reserve bank. Time money and commercial paper rates held firm.

Declaration of the regular quarterly dividend by Anaconda Copper, which many speculators felt was endangered by the unstable conditions in the copper industry during the past few months, stimulated the afternoon recovery. Anaconda, in which a large short interest had developed, rallied at least 3 points on announcement of the regular dividend, but was still a couple of points below the year's high established a couple of months ago.

UTILITIES LEAD

Curiously, the utility billies led the early advance and also presented the most weak spots when the market turned reactionary. In the early upswing, American Telephone, Peoples Gas, Pacific Lighting, Stone and Webster, Public Service of New Jersey, Consolidated Gas, Commonwealth and Southern, Engineers Public Service, General Gas and Electric, American Water Works, National Power and Light, North American, Utilities Power and Light, United Gas Improvement, United Corporation and Electric Power and Light all moved into new high ground. On the break, American Water Works, American Power and Light, Columbia Gas, Western Union and several others sold down 2 to 4 points but all made partial recovery.

Washington Pump was marked up 6 points to 137. Allied Chemical 54, Houston Oil 44 to 110, General Electric 37 to 37 1/2, and Electric Auto Lite 3 to 110 1/2, all new high records. General Motors and General Electric also reached new high ground in the afternoon recovery, the former selling at 50 for the first time in three years.

Outside of the Anaconda dividend, there was little in the day's business news to influence the price movement. However, the feeling has been growing in speculative circles that a general recovery in business is inevitable this spring and summer and that the current rise in the market is discounting such action. On the other hand, conservative commission houses continue to advise caution and a restriction of commitments to stocks of companies with the best earnings prospects.

Profit-taking sales and bear selling on the theory that the technical position of the market warranted a setback began after U. S. Steel had reached 1934 a new top for year, and after several leaders had also broken their previous highs. Steel slipped back 3 points. U. S. Steel lost 5 to 13 1/2, the year's lowest. Later buying gave a better tone to the final dealing and the close was firm. Sales approximated 5,200,000 shares.

CATTLE ARE STRONG WITH HEAVY BUYING

Disorganizing Effects of Storm Cleared Away and Many Sales Made

Chicago.—(P)—Most of the disorganizing effects of the storm were removed by the time cattle traders were ready to go out for supplies and a better movement was expected for all classes, as demand has been growing stronger each day, especially from the outside. Train service was about normal, with only 117 back at 8 o'clock out of a total estimated at 559. The alleys were fairly well cleared, so that buyers could move about freely for their supplies. Sales of steers were in line with the close of the day before, at $13.25 down for the bulk and a few picked up at close to $13.50, with 6,000 offered at Chicago, the 11 major markets showed an increase of 5,000 head last week ago, or 23,700 against 18,000 but order buying by the easterners was expected to hold prices steady.

No great activity appeared in the hog pens this morning and commission men were a little concerned about keeping prices on an even keel. The storm area turned out to be strictly local and the expected shortage of hogs did not materialize, as 19,000 came today, compared with 17,000 a week ago. The market had a total of 5,000 more also. Early trading was done on a steady basis, for both light and medium animals, although there was little demand for a total of 5,000 more also. APPLETON RATES HIGH IN SCHOOL ACCIDENT CONTEST

Only Four Accidents in Local Institutions, Reports Show

Appleton is one of the 10 contestants in the Inter-school Accident contest rating .5 or less per 10,000 student-days, according to the statistical report from the Inter-school contest. There were only four accidents in all schools in the city, giving Appleton a percentage of .5 accidents. With 603 accidents reported, the average rate for all contestants is .8 accidents per 10,000 student-days, a 5 per cent reduction from September.

School building accidents decreased from .3 to .2; those on school grounds from .2 to .1; home accidents from .4 to .2. The seriousness of accidents did not decrease, however, as indicated by the average of 3.2 days lost per accident, representing a slight increase over December. In addition to the total of 1,947 days lost, five students were killed, three the result of motor vehicle accidents.

Other Wisconsin schools which fell in the .5 or less accidents rating were the vocational school at Madison and the Humboldt Park school at Milwaukee. Only one other city, Grand Rapids, Minn., had the same rating as Appleton in all schools.

A summary of data on student accidents for the five-month period from September to January shows that the chief hazards for children in the grades from kindergarten through to the sixth grade are to be found on the school grounds and in the home, with home accidents occurring more frequently than any other type.

Among pupils the upper grades and in high school the classification "other accidents" is most important. This title includes all accidents occurring at places other than the school and the home and at times other than when the student is on his way to or from school.

A report from the National Safety council indicates that in the seven year period from 1923 to 1928 accidental deaths of persons of all ages increased from 76,510 to 95,086, an increase of almost 25 per cent. However, in 1928 one out of four accidental deaths was that of a child; in 1923 the percentage was only one child death in every five. In 1928, 29 per cent of the victims in fatal automobile accidents were children under 15; in 1923 only 18.8 per cent of the victims were children. In the entire United States there were 53 fewer child deaths in automobile accidents in 1928 than in 1927.

If accident prevention work among adults had been as successful as among children it is estimated approximately 20,000 lives would have been saved in 1928.

MARKER WILL LOCATE OLD HOUSE IN OSHKOSH

Oshkosh—(P)—A marker will be placed on the site of the old house built by a white man in Oshkosh— if the controversy over the location of the site is settled.

The question arose immediately after the Winnebago County Archeological and Historical society announced intentions of marking the site.

Members of the society, backed by history books of the Fox River valley, maintain that Winnebago Indians built the first log cabin near the mouth of the river at the foot of Bowen street in 1836.

Mrs. Marguerite Sthay and her relatives maintain that their ancestor, James Knags, built the first house. They fix 1827-1829 as the approximate date of his arrival here.

Members of the society point out, however, that Knags built his house in what was originally West Algoma and that he was three-quarters French and a quarter Oneida Indian, making him ineligible for the historical honors.

Oshkosh was incorporated as a village in 1846 and became a city in 1853. The Archeological and Historical society has planned to unveil and dedicate the marker June 14, Flag day. An effort will be made to have Gov. Walter Kohler as the main speaker.

BEST FOR INDIGESTION

Thousands With Poor, Weak Stomachs Now Taking Pep-Pin in New Liquid Form

PHARMACISTS PRAISE IT

Stops Acute Kind in Few Minutes — What a Blessing

Here's a delightful elixir with plenty of real pepsin, some Menthol and just enough of several other stomach correctives to make it capable of putting almost any weak, rundown, abused stomach in first class shape—and it tastes like the most palatable nectar.

The men who created this supremely good formula know their business — they don't believe in nasty tasting medicine and the people who take it know it. That's why Pep-Pin — that's the name — is having a tremendous sale all over the country. They have passed along the word to every druggist in the country that if "Dare's Mentha Pep-Pin" doesn't bring serene comfort to any worn-out, rundown, sickly gassy stomach that the owner of that most important internal organ can have his or her money back.

Stubborn indigestion of years standing is hard to get rid of, but Dare's Mentha Pep-Pin will do it; one enthusiastic druggist asserts: "It's real pepsin in liquid form—the right way to take pepsin." Schütz Bros. Co. and Volk's Drug Store always have a big supply on hand. adv.

BREAKING ICE IS REAL MUSIC TO COTTAGERS

The soft strains of the violin and the mellow tones of the cello over the radio satisfied the cottagers on the shores of Lake Winnebago during the winter, but the sweetest music of the year wafted over the lake between 5 and 6 o'clock Wednesday evening—the music of the breaking of the ice.

Louis Brunning, who lives west of Waverly Beach, claims the cracking of the ice sounded very much like radio music and that it lasted for almost an hour. Then the wind began driving the ice southwest, piling it up on the west shore. The edges of the lake are still frozen out as far as the second sand bar, but the center is completely open for about three miles.

PLAGUE UNCOVERS INDIAN'S TALENT

Madison—(P)—It took "the white man's plague" tuberculosis to show Willie Walker, 19-year-old Winnebago Indian youth, his hidden talent.

Until 13-months ago, Willie was a normal Indian boy, living near Mauston, attending rural school and helping his mother and older brother. Then, he developed tuberculosis of the bone, and he was brought to the Wisconsin General hospital here for treatment.

To while away dreary hours, Willie took to sketching and sculpturing. Arthur N. Colt, head of an art school here, became interested in the youth, and gave him sculpturing instruction. From a small book given by Mr. Colt, Willie cut a bust of Abraham Lincoln.

This week his bust was selected as the best hobby in the annual hobby show here.

STATE COMES TO FRONT IN HAY PRODUCTION

Madison—(P)—A yield of two and one-fourth tons per acre brought Wisconsin to the front in the production of tame hay in 1928. The Crop Reporting Service of the Wisconsin and United States Departments of Agriculture reported today. Wisconsin became the largest producer of tame hay in 1928 with a crop of 7,300,000 tons from 3,442,000 acres. During the last four years the state has ranked among the first three in tame hay production. Farm price for tame hay as of Dec. 1, 1929 was $10.50 per ton in

New British Envoy to U. S.

"Ready to go to work," Sir Ronald Lindsay, new British ambassador to the United States, is pictured above, with Lady Lindsay, as he arrived in New York en route to Washington to take up his diplomatic duties. He has declined to commit himself as to whether he will follow the policies of his predecessor, Sir Esme Howard, in banning liquor from the British embassy.

Wisconsin as compared to $14.40 in Dec. 1928, a reduction of 26 per cent. Although the 1929 crop was an increase of 49 per cent over the production of 1928, the decreased price per ton made it worth only nine per cent more than the 1928 production. Total value of the 1929 crop based on farm price as of Dec. 1 was $77,595,000.

ENTITLED TO IT Beaumont, Tex., — Jefferson county is faced with an appropriation it hadn't counted on. A petition, signed by 100 citizens, has been presented to Commissioners' Court asking that a purse be provided for the children of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Perricone out of public funds. The children are quadruplets three months old.

STUDENTS MUST SUPPORT SCHOOL, WRISTON STATES

Three-fold Responsibility Is Theirs, Lawrence College Head Says

Students have a three-fold responsibility to add in recruiting the incoming classes for their college, Dr. Henry M. Wriston declared Wednesday morning in the last student convocation before the spring recess. The first reason advanced is loyalty to one's alma mater, a factor that the Lawrence president feels is still as strong as ever though often expressed in a less boisterous manner than in the past. Students also have a social responsibility to oncoming student generations to direct them to the best institutions possible that they may become the very best that their potentiality promises. And finally, for the associations in the remaining years of one's college course, students ought to exert every effort to bring the very best type of student to Lawrence.

The Lawrence college undergraduate body presents a cosmopolitan aspect so necessary to the dual purpose of higher education, intellectual growth coupled with personal and social adaptability. "The student body of the local institution, it has been said, represents the best geographical distribution of members of any college in the state," Dr. Wriston said. "The fact that the Lawrence undergraduate body is not composed of any one class of students presents a democratic opportunity to all to enjoy the campus associations that mean so much to their happiness and social poise. "Lawrence students can recruit with confidence in their college, I wouldn't trade the faculty of Lawrence for any other that I know." Many of the faculty have written books or have manuscripts under way and 50 per cent of the Lawrence instructors have either been in Europe or have renewed contact with university life in the last four years, evincing an eagerness to stay abreast of new ideas, he pointed out.
